Nazi Leader Defends German Treatment of Poles

Arthur Seyss-Inquart Denies 18,000 Persons Have Been Put to Death

But Deputy Governor of Area Warns That Stiff Measures Will Have To Be Taken by Nazis

Berlin, Jan. 31. (AP)—Germany's ways of ruling occupied Poland is in the best interest of the Polish population but the Poles must recognize greater Germany's right as a warring nation of eighty millions to eliminate enemies on her flank, Arthur Seyss-Inquart, deputy governor of the area, told correspondents today.

Germany's future relation to any such Polish state as may survive will be determined, the Austrian Nazi leader predicted, by the readiness with which Poles revise their thinking processes and cease to conspire against the Reich.

Denies Mass Executions

He denied as "gross exaggerations" claims by the Polish government in Paris that 18,000 persons had been executed by the Germans in Poland but warned that Germans, "fighting the fight of our lives," could not tolerate conditions "which might amount to a stab in the back."

It would benefit the Poles, Seyss-Inquart insisted, if foreign countries would cease meddling in Poland and inciting the Polish intelligentsia.

Stiff measures often have to be taken with Chauvinistic Polish intellectuals, he acknowledged, but the Polish workers and peasants, he said, are easily led and are being taught German orderliness and efficiency.

Jews Barred from Trains

"It is true," he said, "that we have forbidden Jews at present to ride on express trains. The reason, however, is hygienic. The Jews invariably carried lice and vermin with them, which in turn resulted in the spread of typhus and other diseases."

In Warsaw alone, he continued, 650,000 vaccinations had been effected, more than ever were made under Polish rule.

Ten thousand tons of grain, he said, were shipped monthly from Germany to Poland to help feed the population, and a bank of issue soon is to be established to regulate the hopeless financial situation which

No Men in Merry's Room, 3 Maids Say

And They Never Served Cocktails There, They Testify

New York, Jan. 31. (AP)—Merry Fahmy Cassini's divorce suit against the fourth of her husbands, Count Oleg Cassini, neared an end today with testimony picturing her as a young woman of impeccable conduct.

Rebutting assertions by the count's witness, Fidel Lukban, a Filipino houseboy, that she had entertained other men in her boudoir, three fur-coated maids employed by the patient medicine heiress swore that she never had made any material breach in the convention.

When the first of these, Anita George, declared to counsel "we never served cocktails," Justice Aaron Levy interrupted the proceedings to observe sagely:

"You don't know what you've missed."

Shortly afterward, he took the case under advisement, announcing: "Decision reserved."

"Decision reserved," Merry echoed thoughtfully to one of her lawyers. "What does that do?"

Anita George, the heiress' personal maid, and her two co-workers, housemaids Daisy Little and Edna Adams, all agreed that they never had seen any misconduct.

Before testimony ended, Justice Levy exonerated Lowell Birrell, a corporation lawyer, from any improper intimacy with Merry.

Birrell's name had been brought in by Lukban, and "L. B." had been mentioned by the count in his answer to the suit. The justice ordered the name stricken from the papers after Birrell had testified that his only relationship to the countess had been a professional one.

Miners Refuse To Back Roosevelt; Demand 'Liberal'

Lewis and Executive Board Authorized To Select Candidate

By E. E. EASTERLY
Columbus, O., Jan. 31. (AP)—The United Mine Workers convention amid shouted praise for President Roosevelt refused today to endorse him for a third term.

Forty-seven resolutions urging a third-term endorsement were referred to the union's international executive board for "appropriate action" as "circumstances may warrant."

The convention thus authorized its president, John L. Lewis, and the board to select a presidential candidate—a "liberal" was specified—who they felt would best serve labor's interests.

The action, supporting Lewis's recommendation that no presidential endorsement be given, came after ninety minutes of the loudest and most controversial debate exhibited so far in the convention.

Five Per Cent Votes "No"

There were booming "yes" and "no" votes, but the U.M.W. president announced that the resolutions committee's recommendation was adopted by an "overwhelming" majority. He told newspaper men that not more than five percent of the delegates voted "no."

The vote on the report also disposed of resolutions urging that no more union funds be contributed to political campaigns.

Most of the delegates taking the floor emphasized that they favored President Roosevelt. Some expressed regret over Lewis's prediction that a third-term campaign would encounter "ignominious defeat" under present conditions.

One delegate asserted that "if the convention could name a president today, it would name John L. Lewis."

The resolutions committee conceded that the Roosevelt administration had made headway from 1933 to 1937, for which the U.M.W. was grateful, but declared that the social and economic program of the New Deal had not been consummated.

"Clique" Hits New Deal

It said that a "coalition clique" in Congress since 1937 "put not only a stop to New Deal legislation, but weakened and destroyed many of the New Deal legislative acts such as WPA wages and appropriations, which were reduced."

To win in the 1940 elections, the committee said, "we must have a united party x x x, united on liberal candidates, on liberal principles, and

Mrs. Roosevelt Criticizes Conditions in Two More Institutions

Washington, Jan. 31. (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who inspected the District of Columbia Home for the Aged last week and found conditions "shocking and depressing," visited two more institutions today and criticized the children's receiving home.

She found that most of its inmates "graduate to prison" and that 49 per cent were "repeaters," which she held to indicate that something was wrong. She criticized particularly the lack of segregation which resulted in small children being thrown with youths three times their age.

The third institution, the industrial home school, she said was "pretty good."

Chairman Randolph (D-WVA) of the House district committee said he would invite Mrs. Roosevelt to testify at an investigation of the home for the aged.

O'Neal Threatens To Take Fight For Farm Appropriation To Polls

Chicago, Jan. 31. (AP)—Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, promised tonight to take the fight to the country "if the House economy bloc should 'sabotage' farm recovery by reductions in the agricultural department's appropriation bill."

O'Neal condemned the House Appropriations Committee, which recommended a fifty-one per cent cut in next year's agriculture department supply bill as compared with funds supplied for the current year.

"It appears," he said, "that the committee is determined to economize at the expense of agriculture."

Says Promises Not Kept

His statement said that Congress in formulating farm legislation in recent years, "in effect promised farmers parity prices, but never made sufficient appropriations to make parity a reality."

"Congress should increase the farm appropriation to a figure that would make the farm program fully effective, rather than cutting off the prosperity stream at the source, as it is

MEMORY RETURNED—SO DID HE

Charles Trautwein, 25-year-old truck driver, is reunited with his wife, Miriam, and son, Charles, 3, in their Ridgefield Park, N. J., home. For more than eight months he had remained away, his memory impaired by a blow on the head, and suffering with the false idea he'd killed someone with his auto. A second accident cleared his memory and he decided to return and face the "consequences."

AFL Calls upon FDR To Take Steps To Restore Confidence in Business

Executive Council Says Lack of Faith Has Stunted Industrial Expansion in Country

Miami, Fla., Jan. 31. (AP)—Declaring that lack of faith has stunted industrial expansion, the executive council of the American Federation of Labor today called upon President Roosevelt and Congress to "take whatever steps are necessary to restore business confidence."

The council, in demanding an immediate "go" signal for industrial growth, urged that "all government actions that tend unnecessarily to discourage business expansion cease and that a positive effort be made to encourage greater industrial activity."

Statement from Green

Expressions of the council's views was contained in a statement released through President William Green who, at a subsequent press conference, declared that industry "wants to know what is the future policy of the government."

"It wants to know what are the rules of the game," he said.

Recommending that efforts to reduce unemployment be "integrated," the labor organization urged

Burns to Death In Cab of Truck

Pittsburgh, Jan. 31. (AP)—A man was burned to death tonight when his cab of a ten-ton trailer-truck which crashed into three Wilkinsburg buildings, setting one of them afire.

The victim was Robert Kiser, 24, Cleveland, Ohio, a driver's helper.

Clarence Moyer, 46, of the same address, driver of the truck was pulled to safety from the tangled mass of steel and taken to a hospital with a head injury.

Wilkinsburg police said the truck, Pittsburgh bound with groceries for a chain store, got out of control in Penn avenue on the Greensburg pike and bounded into the buildings.

John Martindale and Davis Monahan jumped from a parked car and saved Moyer. The flames reached Kiser before they could get him out. The truck and its cargo were destroyed.

The death was the third traffic fatality of the day in this district. Nine-year old John Robert Westwick was hit and killed by a truck on the northside and a man about 60 was killed by a car in McKeesport.

Chamberlain Says England Is Ready For Nazi Attacks

Declares American Trade with Great Britain Will Return

By EDWIN STOUT
London, Jan. 31. (AP)—Neville Chamberlain told Americans tonight their war-withered trade with England will prosper if they wait until "the time comes to turn once more from war to peace" and gave Adolf Hitler Gibe for gibe, defiance for defiance.

"We are prepared for air raids if they should come," was his answer to the man who last night jeered at "Old Mr. Chamberlain and his bible" and threatened England and France with a taste of "the fight they asked for."

He reviewed the "prodigious results" of the British war effort—more than 1,250,000 men under arms, airplane construction stepped up to a point seven times greater than 1935-36, orders for supplies totalling nearly £200,000,000 ($808,000,000), doubled and in some cases quadrupled gun production and shell output more rapid than that of 1914.

Yet no neutral, he said, "feels itself threatened by this enormous accumulation of power."

Tries To Placate Neutrals

At the same time the British Prime Minister, speaking at a luncheon at a London hotel, did his best to placate Europe's disturbed little neutrals, some of whom have expressed resentment at a broadcast suggestion by Winston Churchill that their only hope lies in "united action" with the Allies.

To Japan, he voiced his "distress" that the oriental power should be angry over British war methods.

"We have in the past been the largest customer of the United States for their agricultural produce," Chamberlain said. "As soon as the war began we were compelled to curtail our import of things which were not essential to us that we may concentrate our dollar resources upon purchase from the United States of those enormous masses of munitions and equipment which it is necessary for us to have in order to carry on the struggle."

"But let nobody suppose that we want to use the measures that we have taken for any purpose other than prosecution of the war, nor that we are indifferent to losses which neutrals may thereby sustain."

Then, praising the British-American

Broad Comes Before Liberty and Church, Lewis Tells Preachers

Columbus, O., Jan. 31. (AP)—John L. Lewis told a meeting of preachers today that "broad comes before culture, liberty and church."

The CIO president, invited to address the Ohio pastors' convention, pointed to Germany as a "good object lesson." There, he said, youth followed Hitler because he promised the bread.

Lewis compared the Christian church and the labor movement in that "both have encountered great opposition."

"But great movements encountered great opposition and man cherishes most that which costs him most," Lewis said.

"It is too true that before a man can properly worship God, he must eat. The well-being of people must be cared for before the unfortunate can be good Christians."

"I believe in God and the Christian church. I believe a country devoted solely to materialism lacks something."

Both the church and labor, he said, must try to help 600,000 school graduates who can not find jobs.

Association of Manufacturers Is Accused of "Inciting" Employers

Washington, Jan. 31. (AP)—The National Association of Manufacturers was accused by the chairman of the Labor Relations Board today of "inciting" employers to disobey the Wagner Labor act.

J. Warren Madden testified before the Smith committee that the law might have been administered smoothly and effectively from the beginning had it not been for the association's attitude.

He contended that the main opposition, which he said became apparent immediately after the law was enacted in 1935, and a subsequent series of injunction suits

300 Ski Fighters Killed

The killing of the 300 Russian ski-fighters, rushed as reinforcements from Siberia and the rout of an equal number was reported by Danish correspondents.

The precise locale of the battle was not made known. The defeated force, however, was identified as the third Soviet Siberian ski battalion.

Three waves of Soviet planes bombed Rovaniemi, an important railway junction. They dropped, in all, 150 bombs. The raid lasted two hours.

Seven children died, five of them in one building when a bomb hit a cellar door and tore out a wall. Two nurses and a woman who had just arrived to become a mother were killed when other bombs smashed a hospital.

May Take Action To Protect Shad

Maryland-Virginia Legislation Being Considered

Annapolis, Jan. 1. (AP)—Joint Maryland-Virginia legislative action to conserve the dwindling shad runs in Chesapeake Bay was advocated by Edwin Warfield, State Conservation Commission chairman, in his recommendations to the legislative council today.

Warfield said the shad catch in the bay had decreased from 15,000,000 pounds in 1900 to approximately 4,000,000 annually of late years. Excessive catches of spawning shad caused the falling off, and the bay fishermen annually lose $500,000 because of the depletion, Warfield reported.

New York was faced with a similar shad conservation problem twenty years ago, and brought their annual catch up from 100,000 pounds to 6,000,000 pounds annually by permitting forty per cent of each shad run to reach the spawning grounds. New York forbids fishing on certain days of the week to insure passage of the spawning fish.

Warfield said the bay was so filled with pound nets that ninety per cent of each shad run bound for the Susquehanna river spawning beds was taken each year.

The Maryland and Virginia conservation departments have held four joint meetings, Warfield said, and decided that reduction in the number of nets would give the shad passage to the spawning grounds in numbers to insure continuance of the runs.

The Virginia legislature is now in session, and will be given the recommendations of the Virginia conservation commission.

Warfield said he would make no specific recommendations to the legislative council until the Virginia legislature had acted on the proposals.

Banker Indicted In Indiana WPA Federal Inquiry

Arthur V. Brown Formally Denies Conspiracy Charge

Indianapolis, Jan. 31 (AP)—A federal drive to clean up alleged WPA "dirt" in Indiana—marked already by the conviction of eight persons, including a former mayor of Kokomo—brought indictment today of Arthur V. Brown, president of two Indianapolis banks, and four other persons.

The latest set of indictments is based, District Attorney Val Nolan said, on the building of drives and streets through private property. Accused with Brown are Miss Elizabeth C. Claypool, Indianapolis club woman and member of a widely known family; Carl F. Kortepeter, former county WPA coordinator; Arthur F. Eickhoff, real estate owner, and Charles E. Jefferson, former member of the county flood control board.

The charge is "conspiracy to defraud the government through diversion of WPA labor and money. The possible penalty is two years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

Brown, who posted $5,000 bond shortly after the indictments were returned, said:

"My attorneys say there is no violation of the law, and I know I had no intention to violate the law. I only ask the public to withhold judgment until the facts are presented in court."

Kortepeter, with his father-in-law, G. G. Derbyshire, was convicted last December of a similar charge in connection with a road project through land owned by Derbyshire. In this case he is free on $5,000 appeal bond.

(But in Paris today Finland's minister Dr. Harri Holma warned that the Finnish army "is condemned to death" unless it receives sufficient help quickly.)

Red Attack Thrown Back

The nightly Finnish communiqué said that Red army attacks north-east of Lake Ladoga had been thrown back with the loss of nine tanks.

Observers, expanding this official bulletin, said the Finns were waiting for the trapped Russians to run out of ammunition before trying to administer a coup de grace. The Soviet soldiers were reported to have been without food for more than a week.

New Russian attacks on the Karelian Isthmus were repulsed, the Finnish high command said, with a loss of "about fifty killed." The attacks were concentrated at Taipale.

Other sectors were quiet.

The Finns reported a slackening in Russian air attacks.

Finnish anti-aircraft and fighting planes shot down five enemy planes, the high command declared, and carried "out several reconnaissance and bombing raids."

Finn Commander Says All Red Attacks Failed

Somewhere in Finland, Jan. 31 (AP)—General Hugo Osterman, commander-in-chief of Finland's army, declared today that Russian troops had failed to advance at any point beyond defense lines chosen by the Finns immediately after the outbreak of war two months ago.

The general, receiving foreign correspondents at his field headquarters, paid tribute to his soldiers and said the entire nation had reason to be proud of their achievements.

He declined, however, to estimate either Russian or Finnish casualties.

"The spirit of our troops remains wonderful," he said. "Every man fills his post with out cringing. He knows what he is fighting for."

"We have the sympathy of the whole world in our struggle. But a little country like Finland always needs more men and more arms. Against steel we need steel."

The army command issued an official summary of the second month of the war which declared "the enemy lost huge numbers of men and an immense amount of booty." This also gave no figures.

The first month of fighting ended with the big Finnish victory at Suomussalmi when the Russian 163rd and 44th divisions were destroyed, the report said.

The Russian advance near Salla on the north central front has been thrown back more than thirty miles. South of Suomussalmi, at Lieksa, the enemy has been thrown back across the border, the summary added.

"Fighting continues at Aittajoki, north of Ladoga, where heavy clashes have been in progress throughout the month," it continued. "The most violent fighting, however, has been northeast of Lake Ladoga where the enemy lost huge numbers of men and an immense amount of booty."

Bitter Argument Over Dies Probe Rages in House

Authenticity of Letters Quoting Dudley Pelley Questioned

Washington, Jan. 31 (AP)—A hot dispute was aroused in the House today over the authenticity of letters quoting William Dudley Pelley, leader of the anti-Semitic Silver Legion, as saying he had a "gentleman's agreement" that he would not be haled before the Dies Committee.

Accused on the House floor of leading a conspiracy to defame the character of Chairman Dies (D-Tex.), Gardner Jackson, legislative representative of Labor's Non-Partisan League, was called into a secret session of the committee to disclose his connection with the letters, which have been branded as forgeries.

$105 Paid for Letters

Both Jackson and Harold Weisberg, former La Follette committee aide who is assisting him in the preparation of a book on the Dies hearings, acknowledged that $105 was paid to David Mayne, of Washington, for turning over the letters.

Last night the Dies Committee headquarters issued a statement saying that Mayne had testified he forged the letters. Today Rep. Hook (D-Mich.), who introduced the letters into the House record last week, replied with a written declaration that:

"I have the affidavit of David Mayne under oath that all the signatures are genuine Pelley signatures written by Pelley. This under oath in contradiction to a statement not under oath dragged out of him by the Dies Committee in executive session."

Sticks to Guns

Later Hook told newspapersmen that he would not withdraw his remarks unless forced by the House, and declared that Mayne was "in the employ of the Dies Committee at the time all this stuff was going on," though paid by a committee member.

Swing-Sing Sisters Plan To Wed Against Wishes of Gun-Totin' Dad

By HAL BOYLE

New York, Jan. 31 (AP)—A gun-totin' charge against the Greek orthodox father of the Andrews sisters disclosed today that two of the swing-sing trio, earning $4,500 weekly, contemplate matrimony against his wishes.

The father, Peter, a retired Greek restaurateur, was said to have objected on religious grounds to the double-barreled romance with Vic Schoen and Lou Levy.

Andrews was arrested by police who broke into his apartment last night after receiving an anonymous telephone tip that he had waved a pistol while trying to convince his daughters they shouldn't try to harmonize marriage and music.

They found a gun in a drawer. Andrews said, however, he had had it for fifteen years, didn't know a gun permit was necessary here and had no intentions of firing it. Maxine, LaVerne and Patty also denied that their father had threatened them. Andrews pleaded innocent in felony court and was freed in $500 bail.

The daughters twitter to the tune of $1,000 a week for stirring the nation's jitterbugs by radio and $3,500 a week for stage appearances. Friends said that within a week Patty, 20, the youngest, planned to marry Schoen, their arranger, and Maxine, 20, would wed their manager, Levy.

The girls first panicked tin pan alley by singing "Bei Mir, Bei Du Schoen" in Yiddish. Swing addicts also know them by their recordings of such contemporary arias as "Hold Tight," "Begin the Beguine," "Beer Barrel Polka," and "Well, All Right."

While asserting that he had not headed a movement to defame Dies personally, Jackson said he told the committee he "wished to see a movement which would discredit Dies' work in the committee."

Agnes West May Face Murder Charge

Pittsburgh, Jan. 31 (AP)—A coroner's jury recommended today that Agnes West, 34, of Morgantown, W. Va., be held for the grand jury on a charge of murder in the slaying of her mother in a room here last Jan. 2.

The mother, Mrs. Helen G. West of Morgantown, was strangled with her own scarf. Miss West brooded by the body for six hours and then leaped from a sixth-floor window in an unsuccessful attempt at suicide.

Convincing in a hospital from back injuries inflicted in the plunge, the daughter did not attend the coroner's inquest. Later, she will be taken to Behavior clinic for examination by psychiatrists.

The daughter was formerly a librarian at West Virginia University and her mother was secretary of the Student Health Service.

INTERPRETING THE WAR NEWS

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Another great air battle has been fought in Europe, but it was a battle of words by the three national leaders, Daladier of France, Hitler of Germany and Chamberlain of England.

The trio of war leaders spoke within hours of each other, exchanging taunts and making counter claims to ultimate victory. Although all three spoke to a listening world, their speeches were obviously tuned primarily for the ears of their own countrymen and designed to bolster public morale on the home front against anything the future might hold.

Hitler's surprise broadcast claimed first attention because it followed a long silence on his part. The war between Germany and the Allies will be five months old this week. The Nazi fuhrer had seen fit to remain silent ever since last November when French and British leaders filed the air repeatedly with challenges, and with assurances to their own people and to war-pinch-neutrals that the Allied sea-stege was winning the war.

Hitler's Speech Indefinite

Despite Hitler's threats this week that "England and France will get the fight they asked for," there is no outstanding phrase in the fuhrer's address which can be singled out as a special new message. The speech neither added anything nor took anything away from the known factors in this strange of all wars. Nor do conflicting German and British accounts of the Nazi air raids in the North Sea which played a grim obligato to Hitler's speech reveal as yet any definite new pattern the war is taking.

Countering Hitler's thundering assertion that "Germany today is the greatest power in the world," Chamberlain glibbed at the secrecy which had shrouded the fuhrer's plans to speak.

The prime minister announced, also, that a German U-boat, the first in a long while to attempt an attack on convoys Allied shipping, had been destroyed, presumably almost at the hour Hitler was speaking.

Sought To Back Boats

It seems increasingly clear that the Nazi bombing raids were staged primarily to support Berlin's claim that a dozen or so Allied craft under strong convoy had been sunk. This suggests that the fuhrer's real reason for taking the air might have been a feeling that he could not let the anniversary of his rise to power pass without a public appearance, and that he urgently needed a semblance of defeat of the Allied convoy system to back his boasts of German might.

Time alone can disclose whether Hitler's words mean that "total war" is about to be launched by Germany. The North Sea air raids, whatever they actually achieved against convoys ships, were small affairs at best. They imply that a war of attrition on Allied sea lanes is in progress, but do not necessarily foreshadow any "blood-bath" air attack on England.

France-British efforts to picture Hitler as whistling in the dark to bolster Germany's courage against the wearing strain of the sea siege were to be expected. But the policy of the British government, which often has been the first to announce its own sea losses, tends to induce the neutral world to accept Chamberlain's words with more confidence than can be placed in Berlin claims that a heavy blow has been struck at Allied shipping.

Supreme Court To Mark 150 Years of Work by Tribunal

Special Ceremonies Today in $11,500,000 Marble Mansion

Washington, Jan. 31 (AP)—The Supreme Court, storm-center of many historic conflicts, will observe peacefully tomorrow the 150th anniversary of its first session.

Special ceremonies will be held in the Supreme Court chamber and in the Senate and House. In addition, wreaths will be placed throughout the nation on the graves of justices who have died.

Addresses will be delivered at the Supreme Court by Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, Attorney General Robert H. Jackson and Charles A. Beardsley of California, president of the American Bar Association.

Congressional speakers will be Senator Hatch (D-NM) and Austin (R-Vt) and Reps. Sumners (D-Tex.) and Guyer (R-Kan.).

If those present at the first meeting of the court February 1, 1790, in the small royal exchange in New York City could attend tomorrow's exercises they undoubtedly would rub their eyes in amazement.

For at that time few persons thought the court ever would amount to much. They did not dream that some day it would be housed in a $11,500,000 glistening marble mansion.

So low was the tribunal held in public esteem that Chief Justice John Jay resigned to become governor of New York, Associate Justice John Rutledge quit to become chief justice of South Carolina, and Robert H. Harrison preferred being chancellor of Maryland to associate justice.

But the court came to the fore under the famous John Marshall of Virginia, chief justice from 1801 to 1835. Since that time it has occupied a prominent place in the national picture along with the White House and Congress.

Chamberlain

ican trade agreement of more than a year ago and its "most-favored-nation" principle, he went on:

"One of our foremost aims in the future will be the restoration of international trade, which seems to us to present the best opportunities for restoring in turn the standard of living and consuming power of nations."

Washington dispatches simultaneously described an assurance by Secretary of State Hull that "every effort" would be made to modify the British embargo on tobacco imports from the United States.

Chamberlain's speech began with a sharp thrust at the secrecy which suffused Hitler's Sportpalast speech last night. It included, also, the first announcement that a German submarine which yesterday tried to attack a convoy had been sunk by British planes and warships.

British Steamer Sunk

A subsequent announcement disclosed the submarine was destroyed only after it had sunk the 5,063-ton British steamer Valvite in the convoy. The Valvite's crew was rescued by an Italian ship.

A French statement at the same time said only fifteen out of more than 7,300 allied or neutral ships traveling in such convoys had been lost up to January 24, while the Allied ships captured twenty-one German ships and sank three others.

Later, in the House of Commons, the prime minister formally announced that the admiralty, effective tomorrow, would take over all merchant shipbuilding and repairs, as well as naval building.

The government also disclosed it was spending more than $1,000,000 ($4,000,000) weekly to avoid inflation.

Chamberlain drew deep-throated "hear, hear" from his luncheon hosts when he told them he was glad they had not found it necessary to conceal "time or place" of today's gathering. Hitler's speech was not announced until several hours before it began; the place was kept secret outside Germany until the meeting started.

Assuring neutrals that Britain did not question their right to decide whether they shall go into the conflict or stay out of it and in what fashion they shall use that neutrality they have chosen, Chamberlain told them. However, that "we have never sunk a neutral ship and we have never wittingly sacrificed a single neutral life."

"It is becoming clearer every day from the actions of the Germans themselves that we are fighting not only for ourselves, but for every country that feels itself oppressed by the fear that some day they may find themselves in the position successfully occupied by Czechoslovakia, Poland and now by Finland."

He contended that yesterday was the first occasion in a long time that a submarine had dared to attack an Allied convoy, and added that the British had rescued most of the submarine's crew.

Wallace Threatens Congressmen with Sues for $100,000 Farmer Reprisals For Son's Injury

Predicts Defeat of Those Voting To Cut Appropriation

Washington, Jan. 31 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, leading a resounding chorus of protests against deep slashes in farm appropriations, today warned congressmen, and particularly members of the Democratic party, that farmers would hold them responsible in the 1940 elections.

An "interesting" political issue will be raised, he said, unless Congress restores the $154,000,000 cut from the agriculture department appropriation bill by the House Appropriations Committee yesterday.

"I want to put the farmer on guard," Wallace said at a press conference, "against attempts of some congressmen to scuttle the farm programs." Later he added:

"I would ask the farmers this question when they went to vote, 'which way are you most likely to be taken care of in 1941?'"

The House committee approved a $634,374,756 bill—twenty per cent below President Roosevelt's estimates. In addition to urging restoration of this cut, Wallace said the farmers would need "parity" payments for which Mr. Roosevelt's budget made no provision.

Wallace again proposed his income certificate plan of processing taxes to finance such payments.

During debate in the House, members of the farm bloc appealed to Congressmen from city districts

New York, Jan. 31 (AP)—A doctor testified today that Manfred Hauptmann, 6-year old son of the Lindbergh baby kidnaper, had been left epileptic as a result of injuries suffered when he was struck by a car driven by cartoonist Frank Moser.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Bruno Richard Hauptmann, who is suing Moser for $100,000 on grounds he was negligent, nodded weakly, then burst into tears when her counsel, Thomas J. O'Neill, asked her:

"Is the child's father dead?"

Hauptmann was electrocuted in Trenton, N. J., in 1935.

In examining prospective jurors, O'Neill asked each:

"I want to ask you if you would have any prejudice against Mrs. Hauptmann or her boy because of her late husband's connection with the Lindbergh case."

"Some people believe the boy's injury was some sort of a punishment meted out to him because of what happened several years ago in the Lindbergh tragedy," O'Neill said.

O'Neill said Manfred had suffered multiple leg fractures and other injuries when he was hit by Moser's car while playing in front of his Bronx home on May 4, 1938.

to vote to restore the cuts.

"I can not understand why anybody from the city would vote against that proposition so long as we have any relief or work relief bills, because the cities get about seventy-five per cent of the advantage," said Chairman Jones (D-Tex.) of the Agriculture Committee.

Blood's Team Scores One Thousandth Win

New Brunswick, N. J., Jan. 31 (AP)—Ernest Blood, under whose forty-three years' coaching away came many basketball greats including the Pacific, N. J., "wonder" teams of the twenties, registered his 1,000th victory last night.

Blood's most recent pupils, St. Benedict's prep of Newark, nosed out St. Peter's high school, 23-22, and thereby gave the sixty-eight-year-old mentor No. 1,000 against ninety-seven defeats.

The Passaic resident whose coaching career has been almost as long as the game couldn't see "anything to get excited about." He said "I am just doing my work."

While at Passaic from 1915 to 1925 his teams won 200 games and lost one and in his last years they began their historic drive that went 159 games before defeat.

Pirates' Forbes Field Equipped for Night Ball

Pittsburgh, Jan. 31 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates announced yesterday Forbes Field here would be equipped for night baseball and that seven night games will be played in 1940.

Forbes Field will be the seventh of the major-league parks to be illuminated. Others are the Polo Grounds in New York, Shibe and Comiskey parks in Chicago, Cleveland's park, Cincinnati's Crosley Field and Brooklyn's Ebbetts Field.

Pytlak, of Indians, Holdout

Buffalo, Jan. 31 (AP)—Frank Pytlak, catcher for Cleveland in the American Baseball League, said today he is awaiting a "new contract" for 1940. Pytlak asserted he returned the contract first proffered because "it didn't call for as much money as I think I'm worth."

Walters Takes Blame For Lombardi's Boner

Philadelphia, Jan. 31 (AP)—Bucky Walters, Cincinnati pitcher, took the blame last night for the Lombardi "boner" in the fourth game of the World Series the Reds lost to the New York Yankees last fall.

In a brief speech at the Philadelphia Sporting Writers' dinner, Walters said:

"It was my fault. It was one of those plays where I started for third and never got there. I wound up in the middle of the diamond and I should have been covering up behind the plate."

In the play in the tenth inning of the game Catcher Ernie Lombardi wound up on the ground and Joe DiMaggio crossed the plate with the winning run.

Dominic DiMaggio Sends Contract Back to Sox

San Francisco, Jan. 31 (AP)—Dominic DiMaggio brother of Joe DiMaggio of the New York Yankees, said today he had mailed back to the Boston Red Sox his first major league contract.

The former star San Francisco Seals center fielder explained he had been offered a "substantial increase" over what he received in 1939 from the Seals but believed it wasn't enough. Dom was sold to the American League club after the 1939 season.

The terms were not disclosed.

Professional Boxing Show at Wheeling

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 31 (AP)—Professional boxing—the first here in nearly a year—makes a comeback tomorrow night when Emil Joseph of Pittsburgh, meets Bobby Roberts of Canton, O., in the ten-round feature of a Finnish relief fund benefit card.

The lightweights top a program of twenty-six rounds of boxing.

Japanese Plants Slowed by Acute Power Shortage

Giant Industrial Machine Crippled by Drastic Order

Tokyo, Feb. 1—(Thursday)—Japan's giant industrial machine slowed virtually to a snail's pace today after enforcement of drastic new restrictions on electric power consumption.

The latest curtailment, the fifth in five months because of an acute power "famine," was ordered for an additional ten days in fourteen prefectures of which Osaka, Japan's chief manufacturing center, is the keypoint. Other principal industrialized areas affected included Kobe and Kyoto.

More Restrictions Soon

Additional restrictions will become effective in Yokohama Feb. 15. Moreover, Domei, Japanese news agency, said Tokyo likely would be placed under the new restrictions then, both cities facing a thirty-five percent cut.

The output of textiles, fertilizers, foodstuffs and beer was reduced sharply although utilities, wartime industries and factories where stoppage would be dangerous continued normal operations.

Many electrically operated steel and iron furnaces were shut down completely, while other large factories were operating on short hours. Numerous small plants faced immediate suspension.

Osaka, where 3,500,000 people live, literally was a city of gloom. The big factories upon which it depends for existence were hardest hit of all in Japan.

Coal From Canada Sought

The government announced that 50,000 tons of coal ordered from Canada and 50,000 tons from Britain were due some time in February. Many small vessels were buying violent seas with cargoes of continental coal in a race against time.

An authoritative foreign source said, however, there was not sufficient coal available or in sight to restore electric power to normal without waterpower and that industry could not expect any considerable relief before spring rains.

In addition to clogged transportation facilities due to wartime demands on shipping, there is a shortage of Japanese coal because of a lack of miners and insufficient equipment.

obtained with the collapse of Poland.

Seyss-Inquart denied emphatically that Germans had interfered with church life in Poland.

(Sunday the Polish embassy in the Vatican asserted Germans had made brutal attempts to wipe out the church in German-occupied Poland declared there had been severe persecution of Catholics.)

Seyss-Inquart said that in the German-occupied area German workers had repaired about 1,000 bridges destroyed by "the Poles," including 190 railway bridges. Gas, water works, electric light plants, telephones and cables again functioned.

Textile and shoe stores are closed at present, he said, but this is to prevent hoarding and "price increases. The German administration has continued to pay pensions and 100,000 unemployed are receiving doles, he continued.

He said it had been necessary to deal sternly with criminals, "of whom there are whole organizations," but contended this was for the benefit of the Poles themselves.

"Poland is not central Europe," he said, "we had to introduce measures which these primitive people understood."

Hitching Thumbs Ride Into the Big Time

Houston, Tex., (AP)—Keyes F.
Carson, an enterprising young
Texas A. and M. college student, is putting hitch-hiking on a professional basis.
He has formed the National College-University Travel Club, open only to college students who use their thumbs to obtain transportation.
For $1, members receive a book of non-liability slips and a luminous sign informing motorists of the name of the student's school.
The sign may be clamped on a suitcase.
When a driver stops, the hitchhiker shows him the non-liability slip, which absolves the motorist of responsibility in case of an accident.
Keyes has sold 1,500 memberships.

Question and Answer Music Hour

Houston, Tex., (AP)—The quiz craze has entered the staid field of symphony music.
As an experiment in exciting audience interest, the Houston
Symphony Orchestra offered prizes to persons guessing correctly the

at a "programless" concert.
In the manner of the radio mas-conductor, discussed each piece before it was played and gave some hints concerning its identity.

Although only 203 in the audience of 3,000 named the full program correctly, the enthusiasm of the audience was marked and the experiment was considered a success.

Wants Steak, Breaks Jail

Houston, Tex., (AP)—Two detectives nabbed Don Britton, 29-year-old convict, a few days after he had escaped a state prison farm.
He bemoaned his ill luck. "I haven't had a steak in two years," he told them ruefully, "and I haven't been out long enough to raise money for one."
The officers bought him a plank steak two inches thick. "Well, it wasn't all in vain," he grinned as they took him back to jail.

Idle Money

THE IDLE MONEY in the national banks of the country reached an all-time peak on January 24, when it amounted to $5,590,000,000. Previously, on October 25, this excess of deposits over reserve requirements reached $5,530,000,000, but government financing and withdrawals for Christmas shopping reduced the total considerably. Within recent weeks the amount has climbed again.

This money is the basis for potential credit amounting to $45,000,000,000 and the Federal Reserve Board has frequently asked Congress to confer on it such powers as may be necessary to prevent further inflation. There is real danger of such a contingency, of course, but the point with which the average citizen is concerned is that this large amount of money is idle in the banks.

In order to have prosperity, money as well as men must work, but those who have money are afraid to invest it. Billions of dollars might profitably be spent in replacement of obsolete machinery in industrial plants or even in enlarging those plants. New enterprises could be launched. But let the individual ask himself what he would do with a few thousand dollars today if he had it to invest. Government competition has driven down the rate of interest to a point where an investor has little encouragement to take any risks.

Banks are merely the trustees of these funds. They stand ready to make all the safe loans for which there is demand and the would-be borrower who has a sound proposition will have no trouble in getting accommodation. But banks cannot afford to take long chances with the money of other people and so the period of idle men and idle dollars lengthens into years.

Congress is doing some good work in the direction of cutting down government expenditures and this has created a better feeling, but it will have to be seen, first, whether these economies are kept up and, in the second place, the restrictive legislation which has discouraged business and industry must be repealed.

Aid for Finland

SEVERAL READERS of the News have asked whether it is possible to contribute money to aid the Finnish government without its being restricted to relief purposes. They would like to do something toward giving the republic some help in its valiant struggle to preserve its existence against the attacks of the invading Reds.

It is possible for individuals to give such financial help without infringing the neutrality of this nation. The information comes to hand that checks made payable to the order of "The Republic of Finland" and sent to "The Finnish Legation, Washington, D. C." will serve that purpose.

Contributions for relief—for food, clothing, medicine and the like—may be sent to The Cumberland News, which will turn it over to George M. Shriver, Baltimore, Maryland treasurer of the Finnish Relief Fund, who will forward it to the Finnish Relief Fund, Inc., 420 Lexington Avenue, New York City, which is the national agency established for that purpose.

Information Needed

FARMERS of the country, as represented by their two largest organizations, are in diametrical opposition to each other in their attitude toward the reciprocal trade treaties. One organization says that the treaties thus far negotiated have "done no harm," while the other points to the immense amount of farm products imported, in face of the government policy of cutting down domestic production. It says that such a policy does not make sense.

It is the National Grange which calls attention to the large amount of imports of farm products in recent years. This is the oldest organization of farmers in the country and has usually been sane on every position it has taken. Those who take a judicial attitude insist that neither Mr. Hull nor anyone else has drawn up a clear statement, based on statistics, showing what price the nation has paid for whatever growth of exports it has had in recent years and until a complete factual survey has been made it is impossible to pass an enlightened opinion on the subject.

The question is one which will be of great importance in the years to come and the government has the facilities for making known all the facts necessary.

Motoring Safety Hint

SUGGESTION comes to hand from the Keystone Automobile Club, Maryland, that motorists would do well to check their cars for carbon monoxide, the most insidious enemy of motoring.

On the basis of engineering investigations it is believed that many otherwise unexplained highway accidents are due to drivers unknowingly breathing dangerous amounts of escaping exhaust gases, especially in cold weather when car windows are kept closed.

Reports of investigations received by the club show that in two per cent of the vehicles tested the carbon monoxide concentration was found potentially dangerous.

The source of the trouble was traced to one or more of several defects in the exhaust system, including loose exhaust pipe or manifold connection, blown-out exhaust gasket, cracked exhaust manifold, leaky muffler or faulty design of the exhaust system. Exhaust gases escaping from these defects may enter the vehicle in large quantities without the driver being aware of the danger, it is asserted.

"Motorists generally," says George E. Keneipp, manager of the club, "realize the danger of carbon monoxide in closed garages, although annually many are killed through failure to take proper precautions. The danger to drivers on the open road has not been sufficiently emphasized. It now appears, however, that accidents involving experienced drivers traveling along straight highways under safe operating conditions may be caused by carbon monoxide rendering the operators less efficient. Inhalation of the gases may cause headache, sleepiness, weakness, impaired judgment and decreased driving ability." And, of course, no motorists wants to court any of these.

Operatic Vendetta

BY TRADITION, opera singers are supposed to have inherited a lion's share of the artistic temperament. Impresarios, managers, conductors, personal maids and valets must handle the stars with kid gloves if they do not want the lid to blow off.

Consequently it's right in the groove that Metropolitan's leading Wagnerian tenor should have a feud with a new and very young conductor who took the place of the beloved Bodanzky with the baton. Lauritz Melchior is reported to have said that Erich Leinsdorf is not sufficiently experienced to continue as senior Wagnerian conductor. The same general idea seems to have been the gist of remarks by other members of the Met company, including the great Kirsten Flagstad.

Here are the ingredients of a corking row. Director-artist quarrels are noted for being the bitterest and the longest of all the operatic conflicts of temperament. Fuel was added to the fire when, on the first dual appearance of the protagonists following Melchior's derogatory remarks, the audience burst into wild applause as Leinsdorf mounted the rostrum.

Perhaps it is unkind to mention the fact that the Metropolitan Opera Association is engaged in raising $1,000,000 to extricate itself from financial difficulties and to obtain title to the famous building which so long has housed the performances. Certainly no one would go so far as to imply that the feud itself was fabricated as a publicity stunt, though it would have been a good idea.

If the Metropolitan has any other good stories, either of fact or fiction, let the public have them now. From time to time it needs evidence to bolster its belief in the heroic proportions of the artistic temperament.

The Nazi propaganda ministry in Berlin bars the use of the word "war." Such words and phrases as "butter," "ham and eggs," "please pass the frankfurters" and "will you have some of the chicken?" dropped into disuse on their own hook.

As an instance of poor timing, a Washington correspondent reports that the Messrs. Cochran and Cohen are threatening to leave the government service just when the newspaper reading public is suffering with a cracked lip.

Moscow charges that the Helsinki reports of the course of the war are outright lies, and if there is anything that makes Moscow mad it is for a one-hoss town like Helsinki to steal its stuff.

Parisian fashion designers announce next spring's women's hats will not be so exotic as current headgear. Life becomes less and less amusing.

One disillusionment follows another. First the Russian bear proves to be more of a rabbit and now we read that Dictator Stalin sings tenor.

Stalin is believed planning another purge of the Red army—news item. What's the matter, aren't the Finns doing it fast enough?

A rural correspondent says: "Not much news this week. Everybody stayed at home." Well, for Pete's sake! Isn't that news?

I'm a sleepy head, now that I'm older . . . but once upon a time I used to jump lightly out of bed to greet the dawn. How silly! . . . sleep is more fun.

So far I've remembered every single time to write "1940" . . . First time it ever happened to me.

When I was about 17, I played the part of a Frenchman in one of Pinner's comedies, "The Amazons." The town newspaper said I showed talent and I thought so myself. . . . Youth does have fun.

Whatever happened to all that poetry I memorized in the long ago? . . . Now I can't remember two consecutive lines. . . . Will that forgotten poetry come forth some day when I am coming out of the ether, or has it gone for good?

I'm never going to be very bald.

I like to look down from high mountains. But I don't like to CLIMB high mountains.

I wish I could ski, but I'm NOT going to learn. Snow is too hard.

I know practically nothing about rearing children. Seventeen years ago when we had no children I knew all about them. . . . What an imposing facade of wisdom parents raise before their youngsters! And how often children do peek behind it to see what's holding it up.

When I was being taught my manners I was told it was impolite to talk about your food at the table. . . . Now I think it's very good manners indeed to talk about your food; if you like it, say so.

Men laugh at women's styles. . . . I remember when all the young bloods in our town wore their hair in a stiff short pompadour. Mine looked like a military brush stuck on the front of my head.

I suppose that with the years one does acquire a little sense. . . . I used to sign my name with an "E" in front—like this, E. Marshall Maslin. (I'm not blushing! It's rather warm in here, don't you think.)

Excessive Drink Is Held Harmful

By EDWIN C. HILL

At a late hour the other night two of the town's more prominent bar-keepers were in a corner in their favorite bistro, tipping not only highballs but of all things, from a book. They were so engrossed in its pages that they scarcely had slipped their rum glasses. A friend who gets about a lot and knows what's going on told me this was now quite a common sight about the better bars and night clubs. Our most industrious elbow-benders are wolfing a book—there's no doubt about that. The book is "Liquor, the Servant of Man," by Dr. F. C. Helwig and W. H. Smith.

It assails the commonly accepted beliefs about alcohol stippling the human viscera with various blotchy effects, and bringing the same to swift ruin, as horrendously portrayed in the school physiology books of our childhood. Just as in alcohol with the proper chemicalization of foods and vitamins and you shift the business or industry of steady drinking from a quantitative to a qualitative issue, and yours is a long life and a merry one. The book gives high scientific sanction to just one more round and a wee drop in the bottle for the mornin'.

Sharp Dissent

A friend of this writer, a physician of nearly forty years' experience, much of it in the study and treatment of chronic alcoholism, is in sharp dissent. He says too much alcohol will unquestionably gnaw out the vitals, break down living tissue, atrophy the brain and drag the booze hound all the way along the road map of the "Rake's Progress." He invited me to go with him to Bellevue some day and see and believe. His story of the young liquor addicts landing there, debts among them, made the theory of the new book seem implausible. One felt that mere neglect of the auxiliary diet for their youthful careers of booze-holding was not alone sufficient to make them jittery wrecks.

Why people become alcoholics is still a wide open question," said my friend. "What happens to them when they do is, in my opinion, a closed question. It isn't open to argument. No matter how much you know about bodily metabolism and diet and exercise and whatnot, and no matter how carefully you condition yourself in that regard, if you drink too much liquor you will suffer proportionately."

Deep-Seated Maladjustment

As to causes of alcoholism," he continued, "I am entirely in sympathy with modern research into the psychological aspects of excessive drinking. I am convinced, from my own practice, that liquor addiction may be symptomatic of some deep-seated maladjustment. It may be an unconscious will to self destruction, or it may be a flight from some haunting sense of guilt or inadequacy or failure. Those are considerations which may be competently examined and much has already been accomplished by physicians who, with this approach, are curing alcoholics.

"These findings, which might be taken as lifting some of the moral opprobrium from liquor addiction, should, in my opinion, be sharply set apart from any study of what happens to you if you drink too much. The physical pathology of alcohol has engaged some of the best brains of the medical world, and there isn't a shadow of a doubt that alcohol will sink you if you drink too much of it, under any conceivable regime of diet, vitamin pills and exercise."

Plan Resurrection

Concurrently, Senator Morris Sheppard, of Texas, author of the Eighteenth amendment, meets ladies of the W. C. T. U. to plan a resurrection for his buried statute. It was that picture of the drunkard's stomach in the fifth grade physiology book that made Senator Sheppard the John the Baptist of Prohibition.

REPORTS ON POLAND

This is the greatest issue that any nation can face. Either we are to maintain democracy, and all that democracy means—free enterprise, free speech, the rights of free men to act freely as their energies and ambitions dictate—or we are to let democracy die. There can be no compromise, no middle ground. No American could do a finer thing than to passionately resolve that in this nation at least the state shall continue to exist for the people—not the people for the state.

Cardinal Hlond

Primate of Poland, Auguste Cardinal Hlond supervised preparation of a report to Pope Pius XII alleging persecution and mass shootings in Poland by the Nazi conquerors. Foreign aid is urgently needed to prevent millions dying of starvation and disease, he said. Germany denies the report.

Chairman Walsh Believes Naval Ships Now Authorized Should Be Built First

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

Congress has a habit of "authorizing" expenditures for various purposes without "appropriating" any money to foot the bill. This happens quite frequently in connection with the matter of warship building. The vessels are voted for but no cash is provided to start work on them. We already have big additions to our fleet "authorized" but no building's being done, due to lack of the financial wherewithal.

Now there's plenty of sentiment on Capitol Hill for another "authorization" running into 10 figures. Chairman David I. Walsh, of the Senate's Naval Affairs committee, isn't hostile to the additional "authorization." Only, he says, "First let's start construction of our present authorized" fighting craft; then "authorize" some more.

Admiral Harold R. Stark, the navy department's chief of operations, agrees with Senator Walsh. He points out that "paper ships" can't fight no matter how numerously and powerfully they're "authorized." What he wants is the real article.

Biggest Navy Ever

In fact, the admiral goes rather far than the senator does. Naval officers generally do go the limit on the subject of Uncle Sam's sea-fighting strength. The senator stops with a plea for "appropriations" equal to our "authorizations." The admiral says we need a lot more "authorizations," with "appropriations" to go with them.

In short, Admiral Stark's thesis is that our navy ought to be physically (not merely "on paper") big and formidable enough to lick any imaginable combination of natives against us. He doesn't want it for offensive purposes. The stronger it is, the less likely is such a combination to tackle us.

That is to say, military strength is insurance against war; not a bid for participation in hostilities.

The question's argued both ways. Right after the 1914-18 war there was a vigorous international campaign to get all first-class powers to cut down on their armaments. It was in Congressman Fred Britten's day as chairman of the representatives' Naval Affairs committee.

Britten was pretty hard boiled but he was an ardent armament limitationist. His reasoning was that the only way to prevent a country from employing its naval might was to keep it from having enough of it to be worth employing. Britten didn't contend that any one country, alone, could afford to adopt such a policy. His notion was that they should do it by what diplomats call a "multi-lateral" compact.

The "5-5-3" Treaty

Well, such a dicker was framed up. Uncle Sam promised to hold down to a naval ratio of five versus Britain's five. Japan undertook to hold down to a basis of three to every five units of United States or British strength. France and Italy in the same ratio limited themselves to one and one-half each. It was known as the "5-5-3-1.5-1.5" treaty. Germany didn't count, having been so recently beaten.

The thing never worked from the beginning. Britain began by fudging on her armor. And in the meantime, old Doc Keeley's alumni, paroled from the custody of Barclay, met at the institute in Illinois, their alma mater song and bear eloquent witness that too much booze will eat out your lighs and liver.—Copyright, 1940. King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Mine Workers Well Organized

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

Columbus, Jan. 31—The United Mine Workers convention this year in Columbus marks half a century of that organization's progress. There are nearly 300 locals and 2,400 delegates. Each delegate seems to be an orator in his own right. There is complete freedom of speech. Under the rules, no complaint or grievance can be brushed in committee. Any miner can get his squawk taken to the convention floor. The session is a leisurely one which continues until it has finished all business.

All this sounds simple enough, but to me it seems a marvel. Imagine a House of Representatives with 3,000 members. It would be next to impossible to do business. This system is close to pure democracy but it has become as efficient as any totalitarian state claims to be.

World's Largest

The miners union is the largest in the world. I have seen the workings of several other union groups. I doubt if it has an equal. I am sure it has no superior. Compare it with some of the newer CIO unions and you can see a difference between a government and a mob.

Of course, the reason for this is easy to see. It comes with age—experienced leadership and a disciplined and loyal organization. Running a union is no job for amateurs. The new unions were put together in haste. Hot-headed and oratorical youngsters or men that were experienced in labor politics rather than labor administration were most apt to be elected to leadership—and then not know what to do with it—except raise hell.

Remarkable Record

The result of such a condition is likely to be instability and irresponsibility. This explains much of the bitterness and turmoil in newly organized industries. It is a fault that only time and experience can cure—as they have cured it in the United Mine Workers of America. It has veteran leadership throughout, is proud of its record in living up to all of its agreements and the relative and comparative peace with management. Considering that coal mining is one of the sickest of American industries, it is a remarkable record.

You can hear Mr. Lewis and some of his CIO unions damned by management in industry from one end of the country to the other, but there is precious little of this among the coal operators. Most of them regard their union contracts as a source of strength. All of them know that they are dependable.

Are Nothing New

Mr. Lewis's recent explosions against a third term for Mr. Roosevelt and his warning to the Democratic party, have created a considerable excitement, but they are nothing new in labor policy. It is principle No. 1 of the veteran Samuel Gompers, that organized labor should never "sewed up" its fundamental idea was that if labor ever got itself cornered in either major camp it would be "taken for granted" and lose its bargaining power for legislative purposes.

Mr. Lewis believes that exactly this was happening in the pre-convention endorsement by some unions, not only of the New Deal but of a third term for the president. He feels that in Mr. Roosevelt's second term, labor has been neglected if not given an actual run-around at the instance of the palace guards.

Wanted To Jar Both

He deliberately timed the occasion and character of his blast for the purpose, as he said, of "jarring both parties" by a declaration of labor's political independence. In a pre-convention month of a presidential year before either the platform of the candidates or of either party are known, his idea was that, in making their choice of either principles or principals, both parties should be reminded that organized labor is to be considered and will not get aboard any political bandwagon in mass without knowing what its distinction is. I can't see what the matter with that. Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Your Federal Income Tax

Here Is Information As to Who Must File Returns

Returns are required of every individual who is single or who is married but not living with husband or wife who for the year had a gross income of $5,000 or more or a net income of $1,000 or more, and of every individual who is married and living with husband or wife, if no joint return is made and if (1) such individual has a net income of $2,500 or more or a gross income of $5,000 or more and the other spouse has no gross income, or (2) such individual and his spouse each has a gross income, regardless of the amount of net income, and the aggregate net income of the two is $2,500 or more, or (3) such individual and his spouse each has a gross income and the aggregate gross income is $5,000 or more. Widowers, widows, divorcees, and married persons separated by mutual consent are treated as single persons. The personal exemptions are $1,000 for single persons and $2,500 for married persons living together and for heads of families.

May File Joint Returns

Husband and wife living together at the close of the taxable year may file a single joint return (even though one has no gross income) or make separate returns of the income of each. If separate returns are filed, one may not report income which belongs to the other, but must report only the income which actually belongs to him. If a joint return is filed, the aggregate income disclosed is subject to both the normal tax and the surtax. The liability with respect to the tax on a joint return is joint and several. A joint return may not be made if either husband or wife is a nonresident alien.

If a joint return is not made by an agent of the taxpayers it must be signed by both husband and wife and sworn to before a proper officer by the spouse preparing the return, or if neither or both prepare the return, then by both spouses.

Can Divide Exemption

Where separate returns are filed by husband and wife, the joint personal exemption of $2,500 may be taken by either or divided between them in any proportion as agreed upon.

In filing a joint return husband and wife compute the earned income credit in the same manner as in filing separate returns. If taxpayer's net income is not more than $3,000, the entire net income is considered to be earned net income.

Husband and wife may elect each year to file a joint return or separate returns. Where, however, joint or separate returns have been filed for a particular year, neither husband nor wife may after the due date of the return file an amended return or returns on a different basis for that year.

Judge Holds Kentucky Miners Are Eligible For Compensation

Whitesburg, Ky., Jan. 31 (AP)—Circuit Judge Monroe Fields has ruled that miners are entitled to unemployment compensation for time lost in the bituminous coal field shutdown last spring during negotiations between operators and the CIO-United Mine Workers Union.

The ruling was in a case applying only to Letcher county miners but was expected to be appealed as a test case for suits in other Eastern Kentucky coal field counties.

The State Unemployment Compensation Commission had held miners ineligible for compensation under a state law barring payment in the event of a "bona fide" labor dispute.

Judge Fields held that the miners would have continued working had the contract between the operators and the union not expired and that labor trouble was not the cause of the shutdown.

Farmers' Cash Income $8,518,000,000 in 1939

Washington, Jan. 31 (AP)—The Bureau of Agricultural Economics estimated yesterday farmers' total cash income in 1939 at $8,518,000,000 against $8,081,000,000 in 1938 and $9,111,000,000 in 1937. The figures included income from marketing, commodity loans and government payments.

Barclay on Bridge

By Shepard Barclay
"The Authority on Authorities"

MANY KINDS OF THRILLS
THERE IS hardly any limit to the number of different kinds of thrills which bridge can furnish. They can come from clever bidding, from the executing of a nice squeeze or lead-throwing end play, from a skillful defense, from shrewd deception which lures an opponent into a vital mistake, from successful completion of a slam contract and many other developments. Some of them come under the heading of feats which upon partial description appear impossible, until the full evidence is in.

(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

West started the activity on this deal with 1-Heart, then subsided as his opponents took the initiative into their own hands. North overcalled with 2-Clubs, South bid 2-Diamonds, North 3-Clubs and then South 3-Spades, which North raised to 4-Spades.

After West led the diamond A and the dummy hand was spread, the declarer, William B. Hill, Jr., made a brief study, then emitted an exclamation of glee. Imagine making a grand slam with two aces out against you, when you seemed to have two certain losers in the defenders' heart suit! That is exactly what he saw, and he proceeded to make the vision come true.

Of course the diamond A was ruffed, then two clubs furnished heart discards from the closed hand. The spade Q and A were taken, also the diamond K, then a diamond ruff. South was rewarded with a heart ruff, the spade K cashed, and diamonds completed the run of thirteen consecutive tricks.

The bride wore a gown of baby blue with a shoulder corsage of Tailsman roses and gardenias. The bridesmaid wore a gown of mulberry with a corsage of Tailsman roses. Mrs. George W. Smith, mother of the bride, wore navy blue with a corsage of yellow roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

After a honeymoon trip through Virginia the couple will be at home at 208 Glenn street.

Annual Banquet

Fred A. Puderbaugh and Henry C. Buckingham, state forester, will give brief talks at the fifth annual banquet of the Cumberland Outdoor Club Saturday evening at the Port Cumberland hotel, which will be followed by a dance.

The dinner will begin at 5:30 o'clock and the dance at 9 o'clock. Music will be furnished by James Andrews and his orchestra.

Those desiring to attend the dinner or dance, or both, are requested to notify any member of the committee in charge, which comprises Edward L. Belfoure, Paul Gellner, Walter Keyser, John Durrett, Charles Minnick and William Trieber.

Nichols-Smith

Miss Mary Margaret Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Smith, 208 Glenn street, and Carl C. Nichols, son of Mrs. Martha G. Nichols, were married Friday, Jan. 26, in the rectory of St. Patrick's church by the Rev. J. Mount.

Miss Almedia Bender was bridesmaid and the bride's brother, Robert Smith, was best man.

The bride wore a gown of baby blue with a shoulder corsage of Tailsman roses and gardenias. The bridesmaid wore a gown of mulberry with a corsage of Tailsman roses. Mrs. George W. Smith, mother of the bride, wore navy blue with a corsage of yellow roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

After a honeymoon trip through Virginia the couple will be at home at 208 Glenn street.

A Nose For Beauty

MARY CARLISLE... whose nose is an asset of her beauty.

By HELEN FOLLETT

GIRLS fuss everlastingly because they don't like the kind of a nose Mama Nature gave them. Grecian, Roman, snub or a saucy one; it does not give satisfaction. Silly flub-dub. Taking noses, by and large, they usually suit the face, get along agreeably with other features. They're just pet peeves with the young creatures.

Noses can be remodeled. Plastic surgery can do miracles. But the surgeon of good standing will not operate, as a rule, unless the feature is so disfiguring that it causes unhappiness. The operator must not only be highly skilled but he must have the eye of an artist, knowing beforehand what the new contour will do to the face in general.

When there are collapsed nostrils, the nose is narrow and pinched looking. Operation will improve breathing as well as appearance. A pronounced hump isn't pretty and the saddle nose is an affliction. The bulbous tip, wide nostrils and the nose that twists to one side are nothing to brag about. Girls who have 'em, hate 'em.

program are a bull fight, a sports exhibition including jai alai by 500 persons—sponsored by the department of health and physical education and the National university and a riding and roping exhibition at an exclusive riding club.

Scallop-Yoked Kiddie Style

Marian Martin

"Won't you be my valentine?" this adorable little-heart-stealer seems to ask Marian Martin's Pattern 9308 is a real charmer. The high-point of style is that scalloped, all-around yoke, with the rest of the dress made in easy, becoming panels. The sweetheart neckline and the prettily shaped sleeves carry out a mood of gaiety. For a party-time style, use dainty bow-and-lace trim. If it's to be a romping dress, contrast looks smart for the yokes, the belt and even the sleeves. Don't forget that panties are included in this pattern.

Pattern 9308 may be ordered only in children's sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6, dress of one fabric, requires 1 1/2 yards 35 inch fabric and 1 1/2 yards lace edging; dress with contrast, 1 1/2 yards 35 inch fabric and 1/2 yard contrast.

SYNOPSIS

THE CHARACTERS:
ROMANY HAILE, who wants to be a radio star.
CHOLLY O'NEIL, her pal, who plays in a music store.
BRENT NELSON, successful young announcer, who falls in love with Romany.
DOVER HAYWORTH, wealthy scion, who is growing fond of Cholly.
MYRA NOYES, famous radio star, who thought she was in love with Brent.
TERRY O'ROURKE, who has a weakness for liquor.
BAXTER TEELE, a continuity writer without a job.
YESTERDAY: Dover finds himself failing in love with Cholly.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

AFTER CHOLLY had gone to bed, she lay worrying because she had allowed Dover Hayworth to kiss her. It had seemed all right at the time. Being of a naturally affectionate nature, she did not look upon kisses as seriously as Romany did.

To Romany, of a deeply passionate disposition, they were for someone whom you loved and were seriously interested in. Cholly's Irish temperament made of them something that went with a friendship as well as love. And she certainly did like Dover Hayworth better than any man she'd ever met, except Terry.

Terry! She turned over restlessly, trying to put him out of her mind. Where was he? Had the policeman led him out of the music store to a patrol wagon? With a great effort she forced herself to stop worrying about it and to think of Dover.

If, she told herself firmly, she hadn't let him kiss her, he might not have been so insistent that she take money from him. He had seemed so sincerely worried about the fact that he had so much and she so little, however.

That's the way she would feel, were their positions reversed. But she had the very definite belief a poor girl could not, under any circumstances, accept money from a rich man without obligating herself to him dangerously and heading for sorrow.

The next morning Romany was still asleep when the press department of Interstate called. She was amazed when Joe Telling told her who he was, and that they had decided she was a good bet for the Miss Television title.

Interstate was going to get behind her. How quickly her joy would have faded and anger taken its place if she had known of the check Brent Nelson had written to Telling for pictures and publicity! He had done it partly in retaliation to Myra, whom he knew everyone in the press department thought had the best chance of winning the honor.

Romany was asked to bring a striking street outfit, evening gown, cocktail dress, evening wrap and fur. Also a selection of hats. Her hair she was to wear as she had worn it before, in a long, smooth page-boy bob, curling on her shoulders.

Having received her eighteen dollars for the Laurel Soap Flakes broadcast that morning, Romany took a cab down town with her two bags and a hat box. She vinced when she saw how hunk she would be without Aunt Christie's wardrobe. If they knew the truth about her financial state!

The photographer was in the Interstate building. Romany had posed for three hours when Brent showed up with Hal Trotter. She was ready to drop with fatigue.

"Let the poor girl relax," Brent took matters into his own hands when he saw she was weaved with weariness trying to stand up in one of Aunt Christie's most stunning Parisian creations for the tenth time.

The photographer took one more before he called it a day. "She's a knockout," Trotter told Brent when Romany went back to undress. Boy, can she wear clothes!

"She has a million dollars' worth of 'em," Brent bragged, swelling with pride in his protégée. It wasn't until Romany was dressed and replenishing her make-up that she remembered she'd had a date to swim with Bax. Frantically she ran to a phone and tried to get him. But he was out. She didn't know that Cholly had remembered to call Bax and explain that Romany had to have pictures taken. He took it with his usual good nature.

Romany had posed for three hours when Brent showed up with Hal Trotter.

But Romany wore a worried little frown when she joined Trotter and Brent.

"Come down for cocktails," Brent grinned when she joined them. "Or a steak if you prefer. Trotter has some news for you."

Over mint juleps, Trotter leaned toward her and asked in a low voice, so that no one around would hear:

"How would you like a part in 'Twilight of Love'?"

Romany sat her julep down, looking from one to the other for a sign of mirth.

"You don't—mean it?" she said, unbelievably.

"I do," Trotter nodded. "I never kid about such things."

"But!" She looked bewildered. "That's Myra Noyes' pet show."

Trotter grinned.

"Yep. But is that any reason you can't play the part of Celeste, the new second lead? The younger woman supplants her in her fiancé's affections. A real superior, lovely person who loves him for himself, not his money."

Romany looked at Brent uncertainly.

"I've given my blessing," he nodded with amusement. "I think it's a perfect setup, myself."

"It—it wouldn't be reasonable for me to turn in down," Romany told them then. "But what will Myra Noyes say?"

"I imagine," Trotter chuckled, "we'll find out if you turn up for rehearsal at ten o'clock tomorrow morning."

Romany felt all flutter inside. The big chance had come, but she was well aware that a scene faced her. The consequences of it she could not imagine. Not only had she supplanted Myra Noyes in the affections of Brent Nelson, apparently she was to play the same role in a dramatic show. With a different leading man, of course—Bill Barner.

"I can't catch my breath," Romany said a little later. "This is all so sudden."

"From now on," Trotter explained, "Mary Taliferro, the author, expects to make Celeste a more important character in the show than Lili, the part Myra plays. She will get more sympathy. Lili will show her true colors, gradually lose ground. It's a wonderful chance for you."

Romany had a big lump in her throat.

"I don't know why all of you are so good to me," she said a little shakily. "I hope I don't let you down. It's—just unbelievable."

Brent smiled.

"When we pick out proteges, we don't waste any time, do we, Trotter?"

"Not when they have green eyes," he grinned over his julep. "Is there any chance of getting hold of some scripts before tomorrow?" Romany asked. "I'm going to be pretty scared, I'm afraid, if I don't."

Trotter picked up an envelope from the chair beside him.

"All ready for you," he smiled. "Your scripts for next week. Because you're new in the part, we've called special rehearsals tomorrow and the next day."

Brent had two evening broadcasts. The director insisted upon driving Romany south in his own car, although he lived just as far north. At the door he held out his hand.

"I'm having a contract drawn up in the morning for you," he said smiling. "You'll work on a straight guaranteed salary of a hundred dollars a week in the show, whether you're cast or not. I sort of want to keep you in the family, Miss Haile. I believe you have great possibilities; the makings of a real radio star."

Tears of joy blinded Romany's eyes all the way up in the elevator. Cholly wept with her when she told the news. A hundred dollars a week! And she had only been in Chicago two weeks. If it hadn't been for Brent Nelson, and her chance meeting with him at the station, it would probably never have happened.

Romany was greatly relieved when Cholly told her she had remembered to call Baxter and tell him she couldn't go swimming.

"I wish," Romany picked up her scripts, "he were here now to help me with these things."

"Call him," Cholly suggested. "You should tell him the news anyway. You owe it to him."

"That'll be a good excuse," Romany got up and went to the phone.

When Bax heard of Romany's good fortune, it wasn't necessary for her to ask him to come over and help her. He arrived in a short while. Later, smoking his pipe, he smiled whimsically.

"Well, let's get to work and burn a little midnight oil. Old Pop Tree would like to tell all his little grandchild saplings some day that he played a small part in the rise to fame of one of radio's greatest dramatic stars, the one and only Romany Haile."

Bax worked with Romany till two o'clock in the morning, at which time Cholly, with maternal severity, demanded they stop and eat the supper she had prepared. "Enough was enough," she told them.

Hoover Will Be Asked To Give Views On Relief in Poland

Washington, Jan. 31 (AP)—Chairman Bloom (D-NY), of the House Foreign Affairs committee, says that former President Herbert Hoover, director of a Finnish relief campaign, will be invited to give the committee his views on relief in Poland.

The disclosure came at the end of the first day of hearings on a number of measures proposing federal contributions, ranging from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000, for relief of citizens of the former republic, dismembered by Germany and Russia.

At the hearing, Rep. Tenerowicz (D-Mich), author of one of the bills, read to the committee what he termed a German police notice, saying that Polish women would be placed in houses of prostitution if they spoke to or annoyed German soldiers.

The committee also received word from Secretary Hull that Soviet Russia had refused to permit representatives of relief organizations to inquire as to the conditions of Poles in Russian-occupied territory. The secretary also asserted in a letter to Bloom that the American Red Cross was operating in German-occupied Poland in association with the German Red Cross.

Physician Says Many Things Not Known about Colds

Expresses Opinion That Pneumonia Is Not a Result of Cold

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

One of the reasons that I cannot bring myself to take the extreme alarmist view of the common cold is that I do not believe any serious complications occur from it. The scareheads of pneumonia, sinus disease and middle ear infection are waved in front of the poor victim who is told he must "watch" the cold to prevent these things. What "watch" means nobody knows. So far as pneumonia is concerned, if what is thought to be a cold "runs into" pneumonia, it was pneumonia from the beginning. This opinion of mine was challenged some time ago by the commissioner of health of Massachusetts, who told me that "they thought" at the Harvard Medical School that a great many cases of pneumonia developed from the common cold.

No Certain Method
Colds may pave the way for sinus infection and throat infection that leads to middle ear infection, but since people with sinus disease "catch cold" very easily, it is very difficult to disentangle the data. Nor do I find any certain method by which these complications can be avoided if the common cold occurs, except possibly by staying in bed.

I am willing to offer a personal reward of a thousand dollars for anybody who can prove that pneumonia was caused by the common cold. Full data must be submitted and the decision left with the writer of this column.

Under treatment and prevention the first thought is of immunization by an antitoxin or anti-serum, such as is used in other infectious diseases. Unfortunately, we do not know positively the cause of the common cold and, therefore, we have no positively certain immunizing agent. It is believed to be due to a virus, but it is not certainly proved. Even if so, we are still in difficulty because the virus disease present considerable perplexities in their immunity reactions.

Hard To Get At
The germs for which we have good anti-sera live in the tissue spaces. Viruses live inside the cells and are hard to get at. Under any circumstances, there is no valuable anti-virus vaccine against the common cold yet available.

In treatment, rest in bed is always preached but seldom practiced. In children it certainly should be carried out. The incidence of colds in children is the highest of any age, and the economic loss from putting a child in bed is practically nil.

Drugs give some relief to fruit juices, hot mustard, sweats and inhalations.

But the final study on the cause of colds was made by Dr. Diehl, at the University of Minnesota, who passed out white capsules to a large group at the Student Health Clinic. Capsule A had aspirin and phenacetin; capsule B had codeine, and capsule C had sugar. He asked all the students to report the amount of relief. They did not know what was in the capsules; they all thought they were taking the same thing. The results showed that the only marked relief obtained was from the codeine capsules.

The Romans branded the guilty party in bigamy cases with an infamous mark.

This great medicine, formulated by a practicing physician, helps combat colds this way: (1) It stimulates the appetite. (2) It promotes flow of gastric juices. Thus you eat more; your digestion improves, your body gets greater nourishment which helps nature build up your cold-fighting resistance.

Carrot Cake

Berlin (AP)—With butter and fats a real luxury in Germany, food dictators are devising cake and other recipes which leave out as much of these and other scarce ingredients as possible. Grated carrots have been found a satisfactory substitute for eggs and fats in cake-baking. Nazis claim cakes so made taste "splendid."

Use of Structural Insulation in Home Trims Fuel Costs

The degree of protection from outside temperatures that any house can offer depends primarily not upon the strength or thickness of its walls but upon the insulating value of the material used in construction.

For example, one inch of structural insulating board in the walls gives weather protection equal to that of fifteen inches of common brick, thirty-six inches of concrete or three inches of lumber.

One-half inch of insulation board will reduce the heat loss through walls and ceilings by one-third. The first layer of insulating board effects the greatest fuel saving, the

State Teachers Wallop Shepherd 80 to 37

in Coasting to an Easy Victory

Protestburg, Jan. 31 (Special to the NEWS)—Shepherd College's basketball team was snowed under here tonight by the high scoring Protestburg State Teachers quintet 80 to 39, in a game played before a huge crowd as a benefit affair for the National Infantile Paralysis Association Fund.

The State regulars were "hotter" than the weather on the fourth of July and scored sixty-seven points, with the second team contributing thirteen. For the first time this season all five of the starting players scored ten or more points apiece.

Rice, star forward, carried off high scoring honors with seventeen points but Meyers, was right on his heels with sixteen, while Wagner and Bell each had twelve points and B. Thomas ten. All five substitutes broke into the scoring column.

Shepherd College was no match for the State either offensively or on the defense with the speedy Protestburgers scoring almost at will and the regulars had little trouble in preventing the visitors from scoring.

Ambrose with twelve and Lally with eleven points were the best shots for the visitors.

Protestburg was leading 16 to 7 at the end of the first quarter, 37 to 28 at the half and held a 59 to 30 advantage as the third quarter ended.

The Candy Kitchen won their ninth straight league win last night by defeating the Weber crew 39 to 26, while the second place Garrett & Zilch team defeated Smith Grocers 30 to 10.

The Candy Kitchen was given their first score of the season when Weber's came within three points at half time, and four points at the end of the third quarter. The winners held the lead all the way but never by more than five points until the final period when they scored eleven points to the losers two.

Jim Roby was the Candy Kitchen's star, scoring sixteen points and holding Chaney, Weber center, scoreless. Pete Holscher and Earl Randall took scoring honors for the losers with nine points each. John Chaney played a good floor game for the losers.

The Garrett & Zilch Clothiers had an easy time with the Smith Grocers, by running up a 12 to 1 lead in the first quarter. The winners were paced by Vernon Wharton and Joe Coakley, each having nine points, with Bill Fisher and "Sonny" Wilson each scoring four for the losers. "Boots" Sapp former Dragon player and coach made his debut as coach for Garrett & Zilch.

The victory of the Candy Kitchen assured the club of at least a first place tie as they have one more game to play, if they lose to the Post Pirates, still the Garrett & Zilch team has to defeat Kegan's and Weber's to tie the Candy Kitchen. The lineups and summaries:

Because of a Slippery Track

Los Angeles, Jan. 31 (AP)—In again-out-again Seabiscuit stayed out again today, forced to postpone his come-back race because of a slippery track, and his rival of the past, Heelfly, went on to win the $2,000 added Santa Chiquita Handicap at Santa Anita Park.

Owner Charles S. Howard looked over the track after rain began falling during the fourth race, and withdrew Seabiscuit from what was to have been his first race since he broke down last Feb. 14.

The week-day crowd, hoping to see the renewal of a duel that once sent them to a dead heat in the Laurel mile in 1937, booed lustily as the track loudspeaker reported the California favorite had been scratched.

With the field reduced to five, Jockey Basil James piloted the five-year-old Heelfly to the head of the pack after being outrun for the first three-quarters, and rolled on in to win by a length over Valida Farm's Viscounty.

Hysterical, Heelfly's stablemate, finished third, with Bubbling Boy and Firepore trailing in the rear. "We hated to scratch Biscuit, but it was the only thing we could do," Howard said. "It isn't fair to the crowd, who put their money on him or to the horse to send him out when there is danger of reinjuring himself on a slippery track."

Heelfly's victory paid $5 to win and $2.20 to place. Viscounty paid $2.60 to place. There was no show betting in the pari-mutuels.

Sutherland Says
Much To Learn About Pro GameDeclares Competition
among Professionals Is Getting Better

New York, Jan. 31 (AP)—Jock Sutherland, welcomed at a luncheon of football writers to his new job as coach of the Brooklyn Professional Dodgers, admitted today that "frankly there are many things I do not know" about the play-for-pay game.

"I do know, however," he went on, "that the competition among the professionals is getting better and I have seen at least one pro game in which the teams were near perfection."

Sutherland, who resigned as coach at the University of Pittsburgh last year, said he imagined professional coaching was the same as the collegiate variety in one respect—"find out your weaknesses and build them up until they are your strength."

He plans to spend the next few days here to "get something to think about," and then will return to Pittsburgh to "get ready for the fall."

Asked if he believes he will run into trouble building up a passing offense, something in which Pitt was supposed to be lacking under his coaching, Sutherland defended the Panther aerial attack as underrated.

"I tried to make the passing situation at Pitt seem worse than it was," he explained, "but we completed more passes for more yards than most of the other fellows."

Bob Grove Is Still among Best Hurlers, Rice Says

By GRANTLAND RICE

Los Angeles—I read recently that Old Mose Grove had signed his contract with the Red Sox. That's Old Mose's sixteenth major league contract. He signed his first one with the Athletics away back in 1925. He was twenty-five years old then and had come up to the big show after five years in Baltimore. The late Jack Dunn had kept him in Baltimore for five years because in those days the Orioles ruled the International League as the Yankees rule the American League now. It was good business for Jack to hold on to his ball players for a few years. They pulled in the crowds at the turnstiles, they won pennants and Little World Series—and the longer they remained in Baltimore the more eager the major league club owners were to buy them and the bigger the price they brought.

Jack Bentley—Joe Boley—Max Bishop—Grove—all brought box car figures when Dunn, one of baseball's shrewdest traders, sent them to market. Grove brought $100,000. I don't know what the $600 was for. Amusement tax, possibly.

Offered to McGraw
At the time the story was—and so far as I know it may have been true—that John McGraw had turned Dunn down when he offered the big left-hander to the Giants.

The story was that Dunn felt a little badly about the Bentley deal. Bentley, a left-handed pitcher-first baseman—home run hitter—pinpoint hitter had cost the Giants $65,000 in 1923. He wasn't a bad ball player.

As a matter of fact, he was a good one. He helped the Giants, one way and another, to win pennants in 1923 and 1924 and I never heard McGraw make any complaint about the transaction. But, as I remember it, Dunn always felt that Jack wasn't worth quite $65,000, so he promised McGraw that the next time he had a pitcher he thought could win for the Giants, the Giants would have first crack at him.

The time came in 1925. The price was $100,000—with, perhaps, a little off for the Giants, considering the circumstances. But McGraw wasn't paying $100,000 for a pitcher in 1925. He had just won four pennants in a row—thereby cracking an all-time record for the major leagues—and it looked as though he might go on from there.

At any rate, that's the story. The Yankees' Cousin
Meanwhile, Dunn had some sort of agreement with Connie Mack in that called for him, in the natural course of events, to send his better players over the short line from Baltimore to Philadelphia and in the spring of 1925 Grove arrived at the training camp of the Athletics.

He was young, eager and tireless. He had a strong back and a rubber arm. But he wasn't a pitcher. He was a thrower. He won 10 games in 1925, 13 in 1926 and 20 in 1927.

Those were the years in which he was a first cousin to the Yankees. In the ball players' argot a cousin is a pitcher that the hitters like to face—and there wasn't a pitcher in the American League the Yankees liked any better than Grove. All they had to do was to wait him out—or hurry him—and then slug him.

As he acquired poise, he became more effective, not only against the other clubs but against the Yankees as well. His figures in the victory column mounted. He won 24 games in 1928, slipped to 20 in 1929, rose to 28 in 1930, and to 31 in 1931. He won 25 in 1932 and, although he dropped to 24 in 1933, he led the league again—as he had in 1928, 1930 and 1931.

In the winter of 1933 he was sold to the Red Sox for $125,000. In 1934 he had trouble with his right arm and won only eight games while losing as many—and it was right after that that he became a real pitcher.

Learning How to Pitch
The time had come when he had to do more than just rear back, stretch out and whip that fireball at the hitters. The old blaze had died out in his fast ball. He couldn't fool the hitters with it any more. He had to do something he hadn't done before. He had to stop and think—

The promoters are making an effort to find a suitable opponent for Charlie Brant, Somerset, Pa., light-heavy to appear in the eighth round semi-final match. A six-round fight and two four-round matches are also being arranged to fill out the thirty-two-round show.

Woodruff Needs Pole Position To Win Race

World's Greatest Half-Miler Outdoors Has Trouble on Boards

By BILL BONI

New York, Jan. 31 (AP)—There is a strong hope in this corner that John Woodruff will be lucky enough to draw the pole position for the half-mile run in the Milrose Games at Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

Unquestionably the New York University graduate student, with his nine-foot stride, is the country's—and possibly the world's—greatest half-miler, outdoors. But on boards the Olympic 800-meter champion runs like a bewildered novice, chiefly because he can't shorten that stride enough to cope with the sharp turns. In last week end's Metropolitan Championships he tried to follow the latest advice he's been getting and grab the lead at the gun. Unfortunately, however, it was a fifteen-man field with Woodruff in the center of the jam. The field broke together, there was the usual scramble for the pole—and as they went into the first turn, there was Long John all tangled up on the floor.

Should Long John get the pole Saturday, he might have just enough sprint down that short first straightaway to get clear of the preliminary scramble and then stay far enough in front so he could let his stride carry him along on the turns.

Talisto Maki and Paavo Nurmi, Finland's fund-raising ambassadors, now are reported to be aboard the Swedish Liner Bergensborg which is due in New York early next week. Unable to make connections with the Trans-Atlantic Clipper at Lisbon, the world's greatest distance runner and his teacher-manager are understood to have boarded the ship Jan. 24.

The U. S. Golf Association's expensive ball-testing machine should be in working order within the next six weeks. It is hoped that with this machine, the U.S.G.A., will be able to set some limit on the distance a ball can travel, and to put those limitations into effect for 1941.

to study the hitters and develop a curve ball, a change of pace ball and a slow ball and brush up on his control. And when he had done all that, he was a pitcher—a real pitcher.

Some day we're going to look back at this fellow—and start to tell the younger fans who never saw him what a great pitcher he was. Let's pause now and take a good look at him—and realize that he is one of the greatest that ever wore a toe plate. Up to now he has led the American League four times in victories, seven times in strikeouts—and nine times in the average of earned runs allowed. And right now he looks as though he might go on almost forever.

More important—and quite as interesting—is the fact that when the Red Sox set out again this year in pursuit of the Yankees their mainstay in the box will be Mose Grove, forty years old and gray in the thicket—but a pitcher.—Released by North American Newspaper Alliance.

McQuarrie Hits Football Setup On Pacific Coast

Can't Retire

By Jack Sords

Contentends only Sons of Well-to-do Parents Have Chance To Play

San Jose, Calif., Jan. 31 (AP)—Only sons of well-to-do parents will have a chance to play football under the Pacific Coast Conference reform program, the president of independent San Jose State College asserted today.

Writing in his column in the daily campus paper, the Spartan, T. W. McQuarrie continued: "If a player from a family of ordinary circumstances appears on one of these (Pacific Coast Conference) teams, you can make up your mind that the great ethical balloon has burst."

(The conference recently created a commission of athletics and named Edwin N. Atherton to the post.)

"As an alumnus of one of the coast conference schools (Stanford), I was approached the other day for a contribution to support a player whose home is in San Jose. It seems the graduate manager came to town, got some of the faithful together and told them that they would have to dig up $250 or else."

"They wanted me to keep the racket going. No information for the committee about the new simon pure rules or the expensive athletic set-up. I was simply to have confidence in the gang and come across."

"In the holy of holies conference (Harvard, Yale and Princeton), they have had a rule for some years that no player may receive support from anyone who would not ordinarily be expected to support him."

"The result has been that instead of supporting the players, only the harrassed alumni have had to support their families also. They have had to pay goodly sums to the dads so the dads could support the football players, you know."

"Some of the dads saw the point and demanded a cut. Most of them grabbed a sizable slice of the jack before turning it over to their meal tickets. It certainly was tough on the alumni but you may make up your mind that the very same situation will develop here on the coast unless we take off our blinders."

McQuarrie Hits Football Setup On Pacific Coast

Contentends only Sons of Well-to-do Parents Have Chance To Play

San Jose, Calif., Jan. 31 (AP)—Only sons of well-to-do parents will have a chance to play football under the Pacific Coast Conference reform program, the president of independent San Jose State College asserted today.

Writing in his column in the daily campus paper, the Spartan, T. W. McQuarrie continued: "If a player from a family of ordinary circumstances appears on one of these (Pacific Coast Conference) teams, you can make up your mind that the great ethical balloon has burst."

(The conference recently created a commission of athletics and named Edwin N. Atherton to the post.)

"As an alumnus of one of the coast conference schools (Stanford), I was approached the other day for a contribution to support a player whose home is in San Jose. It seems the graduate manager came to town, got some of the faithful together and told them that they would have to dig up $250 or else."

"They wanted me to keep the racket going. No information for the committee about the new simon pure rules or the expensive athletic set-up. I was simply to have confidence in the gang and come across."

"In the holy of holies conference (Harvard, Yale and Princeton), they have had a rule for some years that no player may receive support from anyone who would not ordinarily be expected to support him."

"The result has been that instead of supporting the players, only the harrassed alumni have had to support their families also. They have had to pay goodly sums to the dads so the dads could support the football players, you know."

"Some of the dads saw the point and demanded a cut. Most of them grabbed a sizable slice of the jack before turning it over to their meal tickets. It certainly was tough on the alumni but you may make up your mind that the very same situation will develop here on the coast unless we take off our blinders."

Family Life Problems Are Facing Quins

Relationships with Other Children Will Be Watched with Interest

BY GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.

Now that the five famous sisters of the same age are to live with their father, mother and the other children of the family, one wonders what new problems will arise in the lives of all concerned. How will the quintuplets feel and act toward the other children and toward their parents? How will these other children feel and act toward them?

How will Papa and Mama Dionne feel and act toward the quintuplets? Will they assume complete responsibility for the guidance and discipline of them? Will they continue to send them to "jail" for punishment? As you know, on growing naughty or failing to conform, the sisters are punished by being isolated in a separate, well-lighted room referred to as the "jail." And this apparently has proved to be wholesome and effective punishment for the girls. It's an improvement over the old dark closet. Is the new mansion which the united Dionne family are to occupy provided with one of these "scientific jails"? Or will the sisters be spanked for punishment from now on, as the other Dionne children probably have been?

Those who are able to report the facts about the Dionne family hereafter would render a valuable service to parents and all others who are concerned with child guidance and family relationships if they would tell us of the new problems arising out of the new relationships and how these problems have been dealt with.

How much parental wisdom, skill and insight have the Dionne parents acquired during the years the girls have been developing in the "laboratory"? Because of my peculiar interest in child guidance, family relationships and parent education, I have often wondered whether it would not have been better if the Dionne parents, especially the mother, had been made constant participants in the care and upbringing of the quintuplets from the beginning, under the tutelage of the experts, so as to be better fitted for the responsibilities falling upon them now.

The experts having to do with the quintuplets have demonstrated to the world, to an amazing degree, what medical science can do. The real test of the contribution to child guidance and family relationships in respect to the quintuplets is still in the making.

Solving Parent Problems
Q. My baby, fifteen months old, cries and screams when I leave her alone long enough to go into another room. She also cries when anyone else tries to wait on her and only I can comfort her when she awakens at night. If her father goes to her, she cries bitterly.

A. Keep no account of her crying. Go to another room whenever you need to. During the day have the father do more for her. If she refuses to take a drink of water from him, for example, let her go without it. You should never do for her what she refuses from him or another member of the family. When the father is home leave the house now and then, even if it is but to walk around the block. Gradually leave her with him a longer and longer while and, later, with some other person. She and you must get weaned emotionally from each other.

RIVALS AND SWEETHEARTS

Childhood sweethearts who grow to become rival artists are Muriel Angelus and Ronald Colman in Rudyard Kipling's "The Light That Failed," which Paramount presents on Friday at the Strand theater. The story of the artist-adventurer who was equally at home on battlefield or canvas is told by a sterling cast which also lists Walter Huston, Ida Lupino, Dudley Digges and hundreds of others. William Wellman directed.

Colman Is Starred in Film Treatment of Kipling Drama

The motion picture treatment of Rudyard Kipling's most famous novel, "The Light That Failed," opens tomorrow at the Strand theater, with as impressive a cast as has ever graced a movie.

The ever-popular Ronald Colman plays the role of handsome Dick Helder, swashbuckler, artist and war reporter, cast in the heroic mold as only Kipling could cast a hero, who for almost two generations was the heart-interest of girls and women throughout the world.

The role of Torpenhow, soldier-of-fortune and war correspondent, who "fathered" the rascallion Helder and made him the sensation of London, is played by Walter Huston, veteran of many outstanding motion picture dramas and Broadway productions, the latest of which was "Knickerbocker Holiday," one of New York's outstanding recent stage productions.

A roaring story of frontier adventure—interspersed with lilted songs, desert battles and high-powered romance—comes to the screen in "The Llano Kid," Paramount's action-packed film version of the famous O. Henry tale, "A Double-Dyed Deceiver!" Tito Guizar, the handsome Latin troubadour, has the title role of the daring young bandit who steps into crime over his head when he allows himself to be palmed off as the missing son of a wealthy Mexican family. When faced with the necessity of robbing a woman who has treated him like a mother and deceiving the first girl he has ever really loved, the Kid cuts loose from his fellow-conspirators and fights for the safety of his adopted family in a frontier death battle. The five new songs written especially for the picture are: "Starry Eyes," "El Capotin," "Lullaby," "A Happy Bachelor" and "El Huapango." The picture shows for the last times today at the Strand theater.

"The Secret of Dr. Kildare" Now at Maryland

"The Secret of Dr. Kildare," with Low Ayres and Lionel Barrymore, flashes on the screen at rapid pace at the Maryland theater. The scientific detective romance in which Ayres, as Dr. Kildare, employs detective work to solve the weird terror of a beautiful heiress, guided by Lionel Barrymore as the veteran Dr. Gillespie, is the third in the popular series.

Ayres is convincing and often gripping. Barrymore is, as usual, compelling, and in several sequences, such as the "craps" game, reveals a new flair for comedy. Helen Gilbert's fragile beauty fits the role of the "mystery patient" and Laraine Day is again the young doctor's nurse-sweetheart. Harold S. Bucquet directed with deft skill.

Principals include Lionel Atwill, Nat Pendleton, Sara Haden, Samuel S. Hinds, Emma Dunn, Walter Kingsford, Grant Mitchell, Alma Kruger and Robert Kent.

Medical marvels of today including the latest in scientific apparatus and Sulfapyridine, medicine's new "miracle drug," are used as incidentals to the main mystery plot. Effective photography by Al Gilks and a clever musical score by Edward Ward embellish the fast-moving detective tale.

of that statement is the new Warner picture, "A Child Is Born," which opened yesterday at the Liberty theater with a cast headed by Geraldine Fitzgerald, Jeffrey Lynn, Gladys George, Gale Page, Spring Byington and Johnnie Davis.

It seems ridiculous that the rich vein of drama, pathos and comedy that is provided by so important an event as the birth of a human being has never before been thoroughly mined, but such is the fact, and that is why the new Warner picture, "A Child Is Born," can be regarded as a sort of "Grand Hotel" of the maternity wards, for it is a skillful weaving together of the individual stories of all the patients into one intensely human photoplay.

Richard Dix Provides Haven for Old Steed

There is at least one citizen of California who will never have to bother his head again about food shelter and the comforts of life. It's "Cropper," the horse that Richard Dix rode to cinematic glory in "Cimarron," one of his greatest screen triumphs.

The aging steed, now 11 years old and beginning to feel his age, has been put out to pasture and a life of ease on the Dix ranch in the Saddle Peak mountain range.

Dix, now appearing in an important dramatic role in "Here I Am A Stranger," 20th Century-Fox film now at the Garden Theatre revealed that he had bought the horse a few days ago for $50.

"Cropper" remained in pictures for several years after "Cimarron." Dix discovered, and then was sold to a milk company. A friend of Dix's learned that the horse was getting too old for his work and was to be disposed of. Dix immediately bought the animal.

Family Life Problems Are Facing Quins

Relationships with Other Children Will Be Watched with Interest

BY GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.

Now that the five famous sisters of the same age are to live with their father, mother and the other children of the family, one wonders what new problems will arise in the lives of all concerned. How will the quintuplets feel and act toward the other children and toward their parents? How will these other children feel and act toward them?

How will Papa and Mama Dionne feel and act toward the quintuplets? Will they assume complete responsibility for the guidance and discipline of them? Will they continue to send them to "jail" for punishment? As you know, on growing naughty or failing to conform, the sisters are punished by being isolated in a separate, well-lighted room referred to as the "jail."

This said property being also the same property which was conveyed to the County Commissioners of Allegany County, by deed of George G. Young, Tax Collector, dated the 6th day of November, 1939, and recorded among said Land Records in Liber 185 folio 170.

Colman Is Starred in Film Treatment of Kipling Drama

The motion picture treatment of Rudyard Kipling's most famous novel, "The Light That Failed," opens tomorrow at the Strand theater, with as impressive a cast as has ever graced a movie.

The ever-popular Ronald Colman plays the role of handsome Dick Heldar, swashbuckler, artist and war reporter, cast in the heroic mold as only Kipling could cast a hero, who for almost two generations was the heart-interest of girls and women throughout the world.

The role of Torpenhow, soldier-of-fortune and war correspondent, who "fathered" the rascallion Heldar and made him the sensation of London, is played by Walter Huston, veteran of many outstanding motion picture dramas and Broadway productions, the latest of which was "Knickerbocker Holiday," one of New York's outstanding recent stage productions.

A roaring story of frontier adventure—interspersed with lulling songs, desert battles and high-powered romance—comes to the screen in "The Llano Kid," Paramount's action-packed film version of the famous O. Henry tale, "A Double-Dyed Deceiver." Tito Guizar, the handsome Latin troubadour, has the title role of the daring young bandit who steps into crime over his head when he allows himself to be palmed off as the missing son of a wealthy Mexican family. When faced with the necessity of robbing a woman who has treated him like a mother and deceiving the first girl he has ever really loved, the Kid cuts loose from his fellow-conspirators and fights for the safety of his adopted family in a frontier death battle. The five new songs written especially for the picture are: "Starry Eyes," "El Capotin," "Lullaby," "A Happy Bachelor" and "El Huanpango." The picture shows for the last times today at the Strand theater.

"The Secret of Dr. Kildare" Now at Maryland

"The Secret of Dr. Kildare," with Low Ayres and Lionel Barrymore, flashes on the screen at rapid pace at the Maryland theater. The scientific detective romance in which Ayres, as Dr. Kildare, employs detective work to solve the weird terror of a beautiful heiress, guided by Lionel Barrymore as the veteran Dr. Gillespie, is the third in the popular series.

Ayres is convincing and often gripping, Barrymore is, as usual, compelling, and in several sequences, such as the "crops" game, reveals a new flair for comedy. Helen Gilbert's fragile beauty fits the role of the "mystery patient" and Laraine Day is again the young doctor's nurse-sweetheart. Harold S. Bucquet directed with deft skill.

Principals include Lionel Atwill, Nat Pendleton, Sara Haden, Samuel S. Hinds, Emma Dunn, Walter Kingsford, Grant Mitchell, Alma Kruger and Robert Kent.

Medical marvels of today including the latest in scientific apparatus and Sulfapyridine, medicine's new "miracle drug," are used as incidentals to the main mystery plot. Effective photography by Al Gilks and a clever musical score by Edward Ward embellish the fast-moving detective tale.

'A Child Is Born' Heartstirring Drama

In a year that has seen the Warner Bros. Studio produce such outstanding screen entertainment as "The Old Maid," "Dark Victory," "Confessions of a Nazi Spy," and "Juarez," this wise and courageous studio has succeeded again in pointing the way to fine and engrossing screen entertainment along another path where others have feared to tread.

of that statement is the new Warner picture, "A Child Is Born," which opened yesterday at the Liberty theater with a cast headed by Geraldine Fitzgerald, Jeffrey Lynn, Gladys George, Gale Page, Spring Byington and Johnnie Davis.

It seems ridiculous that the rich vein of drama, pathos and comedy that is provided by so important an event as the birth of a human being has never before been thoroughly mined, but such is the fact, and that is why the new Warner picture, "A Child Is Born," can be regarded as a sort of "Grand Hotel" of the maternity wards, for it is a skillful weaving together of the individual stories of all the patients into one intensely human photoplay

Richard Dix Provides Haven for Old Steed

There is at least one citizen of California who will never have to bother his head again about food, shelter and the comforts of life. It's "Cropper," the horse that Richard Dix rode to cinematic glory in "Cimarron," one of his greatest screen triumphs.

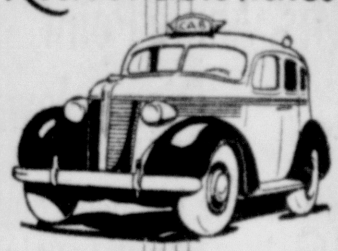

The aging steed, now 11 years old and beginning to feel his age, has been put out to pasture and a life of ease on the Dix ranch in the Saddle Peak mountain range.

Dix, now appearing in an important dramatic role in "Here I Am A Stranger," 20th Century-Fox film now at the Garden Theatre revealed that he had bought the horse a few days ago for $50.

"Cropper" remained in pictures for several years after "Cimarron." Dix discovered, and then was sold to a milk company. A friend of Dix's learned that the horse was getting too old for his work and was to be disposed of. Dix immediately bought the animal.

Late News from the George's Creek and Tri-State Region

Florida Trip Called Big "Flop" By Frostburg Man

Lemmerl Declares Winter Is Intense Way Down South

Frostburg, Jan. 31.—Mr. and Mrs. George Lemmerl, Blair street, this city, and Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Post, South Cumberland, who left here 15 days ago to spend a month in Florida and Texas, returned last night after a trip which Mr. Lemmerl described as a "perfect flop," due entirely to the cold weather which residents of Florida said was the most severe since 1898.

The two couples, who left here by motor to avoid the cold weather and enjoy the balmy sunshine of the Southland, reported temperature as low as 10 above zero at Homestead, Fla., and snow 24 inches deep for a distance of about 60 miles in the vicinity of Keyville, Va., a short distance north of the North Carolina line.

While in Miami, the party met W. Donald Smith, proprietor of the Cui Rate Shoe store, Cumberland, and Mrs. Smith, who said they were leaving for Hollywood, Fla., to spend the night rather than pay $25 a day for a heated room, the party being asked in Miami by the leading hotels.

Mr. Lemmerl reported that the orange, potato, tomato and cabbage crops, among others, were completely ruined and that farmers were doing everything possible to save their orange trees which they said could not live if the temperature went below 15 above zero. Everyone seemed discouraged, reported Mr. Lemmerl, except owners of land in the Everglades who said they could raise a new crop in 45 days.

At Fort Myer, Fla., Mr. Lemmerl said, even the fish, washed in at high tide from the Gulf Stream, froze stiff and were gathered in by the ton for shipment to northern markets.

Mr. and Mrs. Lemmerl and Mr. and Mrs. Smith went down the west coast and up the east coast of Florida and were told everywhere that the cold weather of the past month was a disaster almost equal to the real-estate collapse of 1929.

We may have cold weather in Western Maryland, Mrs. Lemmerl said last night, but we have homes with heat, adding that on their journey through the south they were unable to find a warmer place than their motor car with the heater turned on. She said she was glad to be home and enjoying the comfort of warm feet for the first time since the party left Frostburg early in January.

Mrs. Samuel Phillips Dies At Taylor, Pa., Home

Mrs. Margaret Daniels, East Main street, this city, received word yesterday of the death of Mrs. Samuel Phillips, 87, Taylor, Pa., who had been confined to her bed for some time suffering from the infirmities of age.

Mrs. Taylor, the former Miss Elizabeth Wellings, this city, is survived by two sons, Samuel, Florida and George, Taylor, and five daughters, Mrs. Eva Watkins, Mrs. Benjamin Bradley, Misses Ann, Sadie and Greta Phillips, all of Taylor.

Mrs. Phillips, who spent her early years in Frostburg with her parents who resided on Ormond street, had been a resident of Pennsylvania for the past forty years. She visited here in recent years while her daughter and son-in-law, the late Benjamin Bradley resided on East Main street.

Funeral services will be held at Scranton, Pa.

Water Mains Freeze

The numerous frozen water mains in every section of the community, resulting from the recent cold weather, are being thawed as rapidly as possible, according to a report made this morning by Water Commissioner William Lemmerl who requests that residents inconvenienced by a shortage of water be a little patient until the water department succeeds in opening the mains. He says the men are working as rapidly as possible to restore water service to every section of the community.

The same committee paid Piedmont a visit several months ago when they made civil identification records of members of the Women's Civic club.

Midland has been stricken as hard as any other section of the county in respect to frozen water lines. Very few homes are left that have not had trouble with their pipes. The east side of Broadway street has been completely frozen since yesterday and no relief has been gotten yet because of the electrical apparatus used in thawing the pipes have been in much demand.

Three Other Locals Laud Roosevelt; Tell Lewis To Shut Up

Charleston, W. Va., Jan. 31.—A Fayette county local union of the United Mine Workers asked today that President John L. Lewis "apologize publicly to the President of the United States and to the 600,000 coal miners and families who were saved by the humanitarian acts of our great president."

Three others—at Norton, Powellton and Coalwood—also passed resolutions condemning Lewis for his speech at the Columbus, O., UMW convention asserting President Roosevelt faced "gigantic defeat" if renominated.

The Kaymoor, Fayette county, union demanded the apology. It has 800 members.

The Powellton local and the Coalwood, McDowell county, Local No. 6026 asked Lewis to "refrain from any more such remarks in public."

The Norton, Randolph county, Union No. 4101 made public a resolution asserting that "we do not consider that labor has a better or more helpful friend than President Roosevelt."

"The United Mine Workers of America is a labor union and not a political organization," the resolution added. "Therefore we resent the implication that our votes can be controlled by our officials."

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisons waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic twinges, low of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

All-Time Record For Fire Calls Set Last Month

Fire Chief Lists Damage to Property As 'Considerable'

The combination of a cold wave and a rampage of false alarms sent Cumberland firemen on a record-breaking number of calls during January.

Firemen answered seventy-three alarms, the largest for any month since the city first organized its paid fire department back in 1906. It was reported by Fire Chief Reid C. Hoenicka.

The previous record was sixty-six calls.

Thirty-One Flue Fires
Thirty-one of the seventy-three calls were for flue fires. Seventeen were false alarms.

Seven automobiles caught on fire. Four fires resulted from attempts to thaw water pipes. Four were started by overheated stoves or furnaces. Other fire causes were listed as smoking in bed, ham in oven, beans on stove, electric iron, tar pot, and a defective flue.

Cause of only one fire was listed as unknown. That was the big downtown fire which swept three buildings.

Loss Considerable
Firemen fought for a total of thirty-three hours during the month.

Under the heading, "Loss to Property", Chief Hoenicka wrote: "Considerable."

Firemen got two more flue calls yesterday. One was at the home of Fred Wilson, 257 Columbia street, at 9:27 a. m., and the other at the home of John H. Donnelly, 17 Arch street, at 8:20 a. m.

Five Sanctuaries Set Up for Game

Protected Areas All In Garrett County

Establishment of five game sanctuaries—"Inviolates" with two exceptions—on state owned forest property in Garrett county was announced yesterday by State Game Warden E. Lee LeCompte.

The sanctuaries, established by the State Game and Inland Fish Commission in co-operation with the State Forestry Department, were listed as follows:

Wolfe's Swamp area—two miles northeast of New Germany.

Pines Swamp Run area—on road from Lonsconing to Savage river.

High Rock Fire Tower area—seven miles north of site of Savage River Dam.

Bear Creek area—adjoining the Bear Creek Fish Nursery in the Accident section.

Potomac State Forest area—on Backbone mountain about seven miles south of Altamont.

The original regulation forbidding any person to hunt or fish on any of the above areas has been amended by LeCompte and State Forester F. W. Besley at the request of Commissioner Fulcher P. Smith, of Cumberland, to permit fishing for trout only from April 1 to June 30 in the Wolfe's Swamp area and the Bear Creek area.

The other sanctuaries, however, are to be "inviolates," the announcement emphasized.

Dairymen Paroled On Morals Charge

Harry England, prominent Bedford county, Pa., dairyman, was paroled this week in Circuit court after he pleaded guilty to a serious morals charge involving a Cumberland youth.

The elderly married man was paroled for three years with a strict warning not to repeat the offense and to be of general good behavior.

England was represented by Attorney Edward J. Ryan.

WPA Crew To Grade Five City Streets

A WPA crew of forty men yesterday started grading Greenway avenue, City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer reported.

When this project is completed, the men will grade Penhurst street, and Kent, Brentwood, and Ridgewood avenues.

Deaths

Mrs. Bertha J. Schultz

Mrs. Bertha J. Schultz, widow of Frank P. Schultz, died yesterday morning at her home, 44 South street. She was 72.

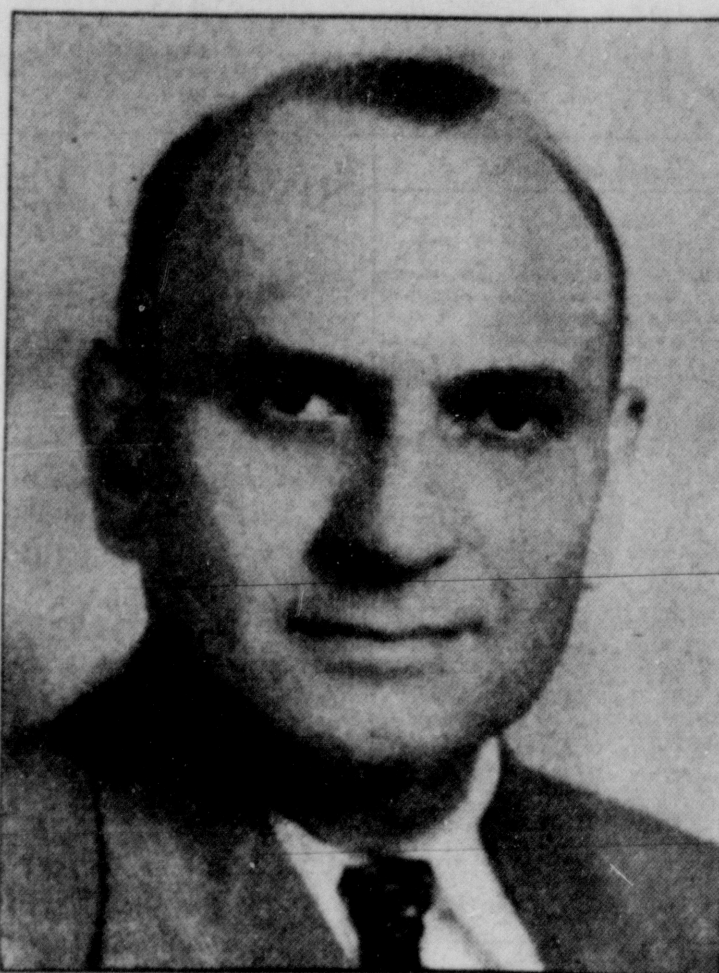

Mrs. Schultz was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kolterman, natives of Germany.

Surviving are four sons, John A., Paul J., Joseph M., and Anthony B. Schultz; and a daughter, Mrs. Fred A. Brinker, all of Cumberland.

Mrs. Dolores Bacchus

Mrs. Dolores Bacchus, wife of John Bacchus, died Wednesday at her home in Jersey City. She was 86.

Mrs. Bacchus was a sister of Mrs. Austin Fleming Jr., of Ridgeley, who has gone to Jersey City accompanied by her daughter, Mary Margaret.

William A. Gunter

Gunter Chosen To Head Community Chest Drive

William A. Gunter, president of the board of education of Allegany county, will serve as chairman of the Community Chest campaign committee for 1940.

Announcement of the appointment was made yesterday by J. George Smith, chairman of the chest executive committee, at a meeting of the committee in the Chamber of Commerce office.

Requested by the executive committee to tackle the job, Mr. Gunter immediately accepted and stated he thought it was the duty of the citizens of Cumberland to accept civic responsibilities of this nature.

"Glad to Accept"
"I am very glad indeed to accept this assignment," he told members of the executive committee. "I accept the task as a civic responsibility."

Mr. Gunter succeeds Miles G. Thompson, chairman of last year's Community Chest drive which set up a goal of $54,503 and pledged $48,780.

Collections as of today represented eighty-seven per cent of the pledges, H. W. Smith said yesterday. The chest is in a position to take care of all agencies for February, but will depend entirely on February collections to meet the needs for the month of March, the last month of the chest fiscal year.

Higher Goal This Year
The job Mr. Gunter is tackling in 1940 will be more difficult than last year's campaign due to the fact that a higher goal must be set and attained if all the various agencies are to be taken care of in an adequate manner, Mr. Smith said.

A committee comprised of L. Leslie Helmer, chairman; Fred G. Hetzel, and Mrs. Morris Rosenbaum was appointed yesterday to select a campaign headquarters and equipment.

Plans are being made to open up the chest headquarters the last week in February. The date of the campaign has not yet been set, but will probably start the first part of April, it was announced yesterday.

East Side Playground Sponsors Card Party

The East Side Playground Association will hold a card party at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow night at the Queen City hotel, according to an announcement by President W. C. Brant.

Bridge, five-hundred and set-back will be played, and refreshments will be served. Proceeds will be used to buy equipment for the playground.

Mother Obtains Writ Of Habeas Corpus For Infant Son

A court battle over the custody of a baby loomed today after Mrs. Josephine Amanda Decker obtained a writ of habeas corpus directing her estranged husband, James Franklin Decker, to produce their infant son in Circuit court.

The petition for the writ, filed by Attorney Elmer B. Gower, charged that the infant was being unlawfully detained by Decker and that Mrs. Decker "is and has been deprived of the right to the care, custody, and control of the infant by reason of" Decker's actions.

Associate Judge William A. Huster ordered that the writ be issued and set Feb. 10 for a hearing in the case.

Price Proposes To Reorganize Gov't of State of Virginia

Richmond, Va., Jan. 31 (AP)—Governor James H. Price, in a fifty-minute address to the general assembly today, proposed the most drastic reorganization of the state government since the Byrd administration of 1926-30. He estimated it would save not less than $350,000 every two years.

Specifically, he advocated consolidation of six agencies now operating in the field of public welfare, corrections and hospitals; strengthening of control in the department of finance without undue pressure on the governor by bringing the offices of the treasurer, comptroller and director of purchase and printing under a commissioner of finance; abolition of the division of motor vehicles and transfer of the functions to the taxation and executive department; and grouping of the functions of the commission of game and inland fisheries, the commission of ocean fisheries, the state port authority and the conservation commission under a commissioner of conservation and development.

Couple in Brother-Sister Weddings Announce Birth of Baby Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Anthony Keach, married a year ago in a double wedding which attracted wide attention, yesterday became the parents of a nine-and-one-half pound baby girl.

The baby was born at Allegany hospital yesterday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Keach share a home at 314 Prince George street with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Franklin Decker, the other couple in the double wedding. The Keachs live upstairs, the Deckers downstairs just as they had planned to do before their honeymoon together.

Mrs. Keach was Miss Vivian Catherine Decker, sister of Mr. Decker, and Mrs. Decker was Miss Marion Agnes Keach, sister of Mr. Keach.

The two couples were married in St. Mary's church on Feb. 21, at 7 a. m. and left almost immediately by auto for a honeymoon tour of eastern cities.

Their pictures appeared in The Cumberland News, and the same day Washington news photographers had them posing together at their hotel. Their pictures made Page One of the Washington papers.

The young father is associated with his father in the drug store business. Mr. Decker is employed in the Celanese laboratories.

on High Roads Low Roads and By-Ways

One of the ladies who called about the story on Dr. Huxley's speech suggested that hereafter we "send a reporter with intellect to cover the Forum lectures."

The trouble is, we let our only intellectual reporter out of the office one night and he never came back.

Because of the continued absence of our intellectual reporter, which has indeed been a sad blow to Cumberland, we shall choose a less controversial subject for today.

We promised (or threatened) way last week to write more about skiing. Since then there have been days when we've about decided to give the whole thing up.

We believe in good clean sport and all that, but it's hard to be enthusiastic when your face is in a snow bank and one ski is wrapped around your neck and the tip of the other is punching you in the ribs.

We never took up golf because we've heard so much about people who lose their temper and break up expensive clubs. Skis, however, are tougher, and one is too concerned about not breaking his own bones to think of splitting his skis up for kindling.

There are less spectacular ways of losing enthusiasm for skiing. Climbing up hill, for example. Or worse, get part way up a hill and then start sliding backwards, a most disconcerting feeling.

But like a number of young fellows we meet every day or so at New Germany, we keep coming back for more ski punishment—like the big Red Army.

With the aid of liberal applications of Sloan's Liniment, our enthusiasm for the sport is still burning.

Ski Shelter Being Built

Building Going Up At New Germany

Work was started yesterday on what is probably the first "ski lodge" in the state of Maryland—probably the first one below the Mason and Dixon line.

The structure is being built in Farmer Sam Otto's barn lot, at the bottom of the New Germany ski slope.

It won't be anything fancy, but will provide a comfortable shelter where skiers can warm up. The shelter will be twelve by sixteen feet, Mr. Otto said, and will contain a large stove.

Sandwiches and hot coffee will probably be served there on busy days.

It is expected to have the shelter ready for this week-end.

The snow at New Germany has not melted to any extent, and the slope still offers good skiing, although the run is not so fast during the warm part of the day.

70,000 Pairs of Pants Ordered by Army

Huntington, W. Va., Jan. 31 (AP)—A contract for 70,000 pairs of khaki pants for the United States Army has been awarded to the Blue Jay Overall Company of Huntington, President Bryson Rawn, Jr., announced tonight.

Rawn said the order, on which work will start February 15, would require the employment of 100 additional workers, increasing the total number of employees at the plant to 250.

The company now is engaged in production of 50,000 jumpers for the army.

Barrel of Dimes Given To Make 'Happy Days'

A barrel of money from a mysterious "Mr. X" was received yesterday at the Infantile Paralysis Drive headquarters in the Liberty Trust building.

The little barrel, filled with coins, was labeled "Happy Days" and is one of many generous contributions that will help in the fight against that grim disease, infantile paralysis.

Silver coins from every section of the county are now being counted by committee officials and auditors.

Permit Is Granted For New Dwelling

Permission to construct a two-story brick tile house at 609 Elwood street at a cost of $2,800 was obtained yesterday by Robert Russell Willis, 452 Waverly terrace, City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer reported.

The two-story building will be twenty-two by twenty-five feet with a concrete block foundation and a composition shingle roof.

December Payrolls Here Set Five-Year Record

Cumberland's December payroll of $1,983,355 was the heaviest Christmas month payroll on record here, the Chamber of Commerce announced yesterday.

This payroll, the largest for the year 1939, was attained after a gradual month-to-month increase since the first of year.

The December figure has been exceeded only once since the Chamber's payroll check-up was started in August, 1935.

That was in July, 1937, when the two-million-dollar mark was topped.

The figures released yesterday by H. W. Smith, chamber secretary, represents seventeen major industries. They were:

Employed
Dec. 1939 14,690
Dec. 1938 12,706
Increase 1,984

Payroll
Dec. 1939 $1,983,355
Dec. 1938 $1,584,662
Increase $398,693

The December payroll also marked an increase of $231,624 over the November, 1939, payroll, Mr. Smith noted.

The 1939 payroll figures tell an interesting story. They are:

January—$1,424,980.
February—$1,451,184.
March—$1,694,949.
April—$1,439,293.
May—$1,632,983.
June—$1,494,805.
July—$1,494,805.
August—$666,307.
September—$1,582,284.
October—$1,737,718.
November—$1,731,731.
December—$1,983,355.

Writing in the Chamber's monthly bulletin, Mr. Smith states, "We enter the New Year with employment continuing on a high level and the January payroll figure should reflect this activity."

Little Change in State
Factory employment and payrolls in Maryland indicated little change from November to December, 1939. Employment increased 0.1 percent thus continuing the upward trend started in September.

Combined weekly payrolls decreased 0.2 percent.

These changes, although slight, are contra-seasonal, Mr. Smith said. This report is based on returns made by 628 manufacturing establishments employing in December, 1939, 108,740 persons whose combined weekly earnings in that month were $3,780,999.

Weekly Earnings Average $25
Average weekly earnings in combined manufacturing industries in Maryland in December amounted to $25.57. Using the selected group of firms reporting manhours, an average hourly rate of 57.5 cents was determined for December, 1939. The average hours worked per week amounted to 39.6 hours.

December sales in Cumberland showed a gain of 17.1 percent over December, 1938. William L. Sherman, public accountant reported.

Investment of Postal Savings bonds in Cumberland for December amounted to $30,937.50 or an increase of $15,981.75 compared with December, 1938. Postal Savings deposits for December amounted to $10,115, or an increase of $451 compared with December, 1938.

Flood Control Plans Swamped

Chamber Pessimistic In Latest Report

Pessimism dominated the flood control report of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday.

"No progress has been made on this problem, H. W. Smith, secretary, writes. In spite of the thorough study which it has been given and the plans which have been drawn, no satisfactory solution has been found."

"The final plans prepared by the Army engineers presented certain features which were objectionable to the members of the committee and most citizens."

"It begins to appear that control of Willis creek and the Potomac in Cumberland involves problems that cannot economically be solved."

Miss Rosemary Soehner

School Girl, 18, Dies Following Two-Year Illness

Rosemary Soehner's Death Mourned By Many Friends

Miss Rosemary Soehner, pretty and popular school girl, died last night at her home after an illness of nearly two years. She was 18.

Surviving are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Soehner, 504 Aviret avenue, and a brother, Richard. Mr. Soehner is chief clerk in the B&O office here.

Miss Soehner was a graduate of Ursuline academy and had attended the Ursuline Business School up until Christmas. She took an active part in school affairs, and won prominence for her roles in school plays. She had many friends among the young people of the community.

Her death was attributed to a sarcoma, a cancer-like condition which resulted after a nail pierced her knee when she fell at a picnic about twenty months ago.

Requiem High Mass will be held at St. Peter and Paul Catholic church Saturday morning, after which the body will be taken to Dayton, Ohio, for burial. Dayton is the original home of Mr. and Mrs. Soehner.

Woman Deserted 23 Years Ago Granted Divorce

A marriage contracted more than thirty years ago, but which desertion brought to an end about seven years later, had been officially dissolved today.

Associate Judge William A. Huster signed a decree in Circuit court granting Mrs. Margaret P. Athey, of Cumberland, an absolute divorce from John H. Athey, of Shillmar.

The couple was wed here Aug. 28, 1909, and lived together until June 5, 1917, when Athey deserted his wife, according to testimony considered by the court.

The defendant, after leaving her, refused to support her and their two children (now 27 and 25). Mrs. Athey said, and she was befriended by her mother-in-law, who gave them a home here.

One of the plaintiff's witnesses at the hearing was the defendant's sister.

Restraining Order In Troxell Suit

Suit for partial divorce was docketed in Circuit court yesterday by Mrs. Lucy M. Troxell against John J. Troxell.

The plaintiff, represented by Attorney Clarence Lippel, obtained a restraining order forbidding Troxell to enter their home at 227 North Lee street or the cigar store they have been jointly operating at Baltimore and South Mechanic streets.

In another suit docketed by Attorney Simon F. Reilly, Mrs. Bernetta Dicken asked an absolute divorce from James C. Dicken, a Calanese worker.

The couple was wed Jan. 23, 1932, and lived together until July 25, 1939, according to the bill of complaint, which asks custody of an infant daughter and payment of alimony, counsel fees and costs.

Mercury Climbs to 42, And It Seemed Warm!

Cumberland experienced its warmest day in some time yesterday.

The thermometer on top of City Hall registered forty-two degrees yesterday at 5 p. m.

The mercury dropped fourteen degrees, however, between 5 p. m. and midnight.
